MacArthur Declines Bid For Return To U. S. Now

Fears Trip Before Convention Might Be Condemned as Political Maneuver

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Gen. Douglas MacArthur yesterday declined to return to Washington at this time because the trip would be "condemned by many as politically inspired."

He offered to come back after the Republican convention, however, if Congress still wants his views on the Far Eastern situation "or any other matter affecting the public interest."

Disappointment Voiced

At the Capitol, Republican leaders said Congress may not be in session at that time. Senator Kenneth S. Wherry (R., Nebr.), whose motion in a Senate committee resulted in the invitation, voiced disappointment, but said he probably wouldn't renew the motion.

MacArthur-for-President forces continued to suggest the supreme commander in the Far East would return "if ordered" but most speculation on his return and the political stir that went with it subsided as quickly as it had flared.

MacArthur brought it down to earth with this statement: " . . . It would be peculiarly repugnant to me to have it felt that I sought to capitalize to political advantage, as many have frankly urged, the public goodwill which might manifest itself upon my first return to American soil following the Pacific war."

MacArthur's statement on March 9 that he would run if nominated but would not campaign for the nomination apparently was unaffected by his refusal to return now.

Cabled to Bridges

He was still in the race, but most MacArthur boosters believed only a "triumphal return" before the convention could give a fillip to his chances.

MacArthur's reply was cabled to Senate Appropriations Chairman Styles Bridges (R., N. H.) through Army Secretary Royall. The Senate Appropriations Committee, voting 17 to 2 Thursday to invite the general to testify on Economic Cooperation Administration needs in the Far East, had routed its request through the War Department.

"No man could fail to appreciate the friendly and generous spirit prompting the invitation of your distinguished committee," MacArthur replied, and went on to say:

"You may be sure that I have wished earnestly ever since the end of the war for the opportunity to return to my native land, but the heavy pressure of my duties here and the paramountcy of the public interest have left me no justification for so doing from motives

NBC Urges State Department To Check 'Voice' Broadcasts

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

The National Broadcasting Co. yesterday told Congress the State Department should check in advance all "Voice of America" overseas broadcasts.

The official position of NBC was voiced by Charles R. Denny, NBC vice president, who told a House subcommittee that NBC had been under the mistaken impression that the State Department saw the much-talked-about "Know North America" broadcasts before they were beamed to Latin America.

Denny was one of several witnesses before a House Executive Expenditures Subcommittee headed by Representative J. Edgar Chenoweth (R., Colo.).

Differ on Dropping Program

The House subcommittee has launched the first of many inquiries into how the "Voice of America" happened to tell Latin Americans, among other things, that "New England was founded on hypocrisy and Texas was born in sin."

Chenoweth said he thought it might be a good idea to discontinue all "Voice of America" programs for a while, or at least transfer them from State Department control.

Denny told the subcommittee it would be a terrible mistake to silence the Voice at this point in the international battle "for men's minds."

Realty Case Ruling Pleases Government

Defendants' Lawyer Bars Reporters From Disclosing Record

By Howard Dutkin
Post Reporter

Results of a bench conference—withheld from the press—yesterday in District Court foreshadowed a boost for the Government's case against at least one of the defendants in the real estate antitrust trial.

This was apparent by the attitude of opposing counsel following the secret parley with Associate Justice Edward M. Curran.

Justice Department Prosecutor Victor H. Kramer was apparently pleased with the conference result. He refused to comment but suggested that reporters ask to be allowed a look at the record.

Realtors' Lawyer in Contrast

In direct contrast was the reaction of Attorney William E. Leahy, representing the Washington Real Estate Board.

He emphatically told the court stenotypist that the record of the bench conference was not a part of the transcript of the case.

Curran himself refused permission to see the record and would not comment about what had taken place at the parley.

The trial, in which the local board and the National Association of Real Estate Boards stand accused of brokerage fee-fixing, was recessed shortly after noon yesterday until Tuesday at request of Government counsel for the purpose of reviewing the transcript of the case.

Admits "Uniform Action"

Earlier J. Wesley Buchanan, local realtor, admitted that members of the Washington Board did take "uniform action with respect to commission rates."

This was in 1943 when the board decided to adopt as uniform a 5 per cent fee on all sales up to $50,000 in place of a former fee of 5 per cent on the first $5000 and 3 per cent on the remainder.

The witness, however, denied that the rules of the board were binding on the members.

House Approves Membership in U. N. Health Group

By the United Press

The House yesterday, passed by voice vote and sent to the Senate a bill authorizing United States participation in the World Health Organization.

The Senate has already passed a similar but not identical bill,—and differences in the versions will have to be compromised.

The House act authorizes an appropriation not to exceed $1,920,000 in each year as the United States contribution to the organization.

An outgrowth of the United Nations, WHO is a specialized agency connected with the U. N. Economic and Social Council.

The measure exempts the United States from commitments to any special legislative action as the result of the organization's operations.

Englishmen Take Action Against Atomic Kisses

London, May 28 (U.P.).—Health Minister Aneurin Bevan asked the House of Commons today to protect the nation against atomic kisses.

Bevan told Commons that atomic products and by-products soon may be available at low cost and in great quantities. He warned the cosmetics industry might use these substances in lipstick, face cream and soap, thus endangering the health of those who use it.

He asked approval of a measure empowering him to lay down regulations, with the advice of an advisory committee, to protect the public against radioactive glamor.

13-Cent Wage Hike Granted By Chrysler

73,000 Striking UAW Employes to Call Off Walkout As Pact Is Reached

Detroit, May 28 (U.P.).—Chrysler Corp. tonight granted its 73,000 striking United Auto Workers (CIO) flat 13-cent hourly pay increases and the union said it will call off its 17-day-old walkout at midnight.

The straight wage boost, differing sharply from the cost-of-living formula reached by the union and General Motors Corp., was announced jointly by Robert W. Conder, company labor relations director, and Norman Matthews, chief of the UAW's Chrysler department.

It goes into effect as soon as Chrysler locals in Michigan, Indiana and California approve it. Matthews recommended immediate ratification by the rank-and-file membership.

Vote Scheduled Sunday

Matthews announced that all Chrysler locals will meet Sunday to vote on ratification.

Under the agreement, reached after three days of bargaining sessions arranged by Michigan Gov. Kim Sigler, the present Chrysler-UAW contract, which was to have terminated April 26, 1949, is extended to August 1, 1950.

Either the UAW or the company may reopen the contract once during its life for new wage talks, but not until after June 15, 1949.

The pace-setting GM-union agreement reached on Tuesday allows General Motor's 225,000 auto workers to receive further pay hikes, or reductions, every three months depending on the cost-of-living index.

Conder said the new wage pact will cost Chrysler more than 21 million dollars a year. Union officials said it would cost the firm, smallest of the "big three" auto makers, $23,700,000 annually.

Opposition Cracked

Matthews said that the Chrysler strikers, with the support of GM union members, "have definitely cracked the solid opposition to new wage increases in the auto industry, a position in which the auto industry was allied with the steel and electrical industries."

Conder said the company also will grant its salaried workers raises of approximately 9 per cent, with a minimum monthly raise of $20.

The agreement provides that vacation pay for hourly-rated employes in 1949 will be adjusted to include the general 13-cent increase.

To erase wage inequities between classifications, some 1700 Chrysler workers will receive boosts of from 3 to 10 cents an hour in addition to the general raise.

The UAW, which demanded a flat 30-cent pay increase plus other benefits bringing the total package to 35 cents when negotiations began February 27, withdrew all of its fringe demands.

U. S. to Spend 2 Billion for Warplanes

Forrestal Gives Authorization for New Air Force and Navy Craft Orders

Defense Secretary James Forrestal last night authorized the Air Force and Navy to place orders for nearly two billion dollars worth of warplanes.

This action withholds from spending, for the present, 800 millions of the $2,789,000,000 voted by Congress for new plane production. President Truman and Forrestal had asked for only $1,976,000,000 for aircraft orders next year.

Last night's allocation of funds, gave $1,345,165,000 to the Air Force and $653,635,000 to the Navy.

800 Millions Withheld

When President Truman signed the 1949 aircraft procurement appropriation bill a week ago, he served notice he would exercise discretion in spending the money. Congress voted 822 millions more for Air Force planes than he had proposed despite Administration warnings that the heavier outlays might endanger the national economy.

But the Appropriation Act itself gave Mr. Truman specific control of spending the plane funds, and Forrestal's action last night indicated he is going to exercise it.

The total amount released to the Air Force and Navy—$1,998,800,000—withholds 700 millions of the money voted for the USAF and 100 million of that approved by Congress for naval aviation.

Forrestal's announcement said the departments would disclose "details" of the program, but neither the Air Force nor the Navy was able last night to say how many or what planes would be ordered with the funds released to them.

No Comment on Cutback

During the hearings on the bill, it was disclosed that some 4200 warplanes would be built with the total amount provided—2700 for the Air Force and 1500 for the Navy.

This would start modernizing the air groups in each service and launch the USAF's so-called 70-group air program. Officials would not comment last night whether the withholding of 700 million dollars from the Air Force means a cutback from the 70-group plan.

Undoubtedly, it means that both services cannot order all the planes they planned at this time. To that extent it is slowing down the air power expansion program.

President Truman said a week ago he would review the entire military program in September and again in December. On those dates he is expected to consider the effect of the present orders on the national economy and decide whether to release the remaining 800 millions for planes.

Malan To Head Cabinet

Gen. Smuts Quits as Premier After South Africa Election

Capetown, Union of South Africa, May 28 (AP).—Field Marshal Jan Christiaan Smuts, 78-year-old British Empire statesman, resigned as premier today and prepared to turn the office over to his successful Nationalist rival in Tuesday's elections.

The Governor General called to form a new government, Dr. Francois Malan, 74, whose Nationalists favor a policy of isolation from British Empire affairs, strict segregation of non-Europeans such as Indians and African natives in separate districts, and development of mineral resources under state control.

Smuts, prime minister for 14 years—from 1919 to 1924 and 1939 to 1948—was defeated in a campaign fought mainly on the color issue. His United Party and Labor allies won 71 seats in the final results, while the combined Nationalist-Afrikaner opposition added up 79.

The Nationalist press called the overturn a "revolution."

In Johannesburg, some political observers felt it was unlikely that Smuts would avail himself of offers by elected Parliament members to step down in his favor. It also was considered doubtful whether he would come to Capetown for the next parliamentary session.

J. H. Hofmeyr, former deputy prime minister, was expected to be the new leader of the opposition. Smuts already has sent a telegram to C. B. M. Abbott refusing the Cape Sea Point seat.

The Nationalist-Afrikaner Party coalition's narrow majority may become increasingly difficult and some political observers say that another general election is inevitable within the next few months.

The Labor Party, which won six seats, said it would continue to follow its independent course based on policies traditionally associated with labor. It will oppose anti-democratic measures and a break with the British Com-

Legion and Israeli Troops Rushed to Vital Engagement Near Jerusalem

Latrun Battle Grows

Cairo, May 28 (AP).—Arab Legion and Israeli commanders fed armor and artillery into the mounting battle for Latrun tonight after hungry, outnumbered Jews in Jerusalem's Old City surrendered to King Abdullah's siege forces.

The victory of the Trans-Jordan troops in the Old City was not a decisive one. The battle for a bigger prize—all of Jerusalem—was being fought out 14 miles west of the Holy City on the vital highway from Tel Aviv.

Israel's army announced that its troops captured the Arab villages of Beit Jiz and Beit Susin just south of the highway and a little more than a mile from Latrun.

An Egyptian communique said tonight Egyptian bombers attacked and dispersed Jewish troop concentrations which were attempting to open the Jerusalem-Tel Aviv road at Bab el Wad, 11 miles west of the Holy City. Bab el Wad is 4 miles east of Latrun. The communique also said Egyptian planes raided Jewish settlements between Tel Aviv and Gaza.

A Tel Aviv dispatch said there were indications the Latrun engagement might be the decisive one in the Palestine war. The British-controlled Near East Radio quoted a correspondent as describing the battle there as the largest yet.

Both sides have been pouring in reinforcements, Jerusalem dispatches said. Thousands of Arabs and Jews now are reported engaged in the struggle.

Vital to Besieged Jews

Even before the battle for Jerusalem's Old City was decided the Arab Legion was reported to have drawn troops out of the Jerusalem area and rushed them to Bab el Wad gorge in an attempt to stem the Jewish attack.

The Jews began the offensive Monday and met a heavy concentration of Arab forces. Beit Jiz and Beit Susin fell to the Jewish troops after they swept south of the highway in a flanking move last night.

To open communications to the 80,000 to 90,000 Jews besieged in the modern sections of Jerusalem, the Jews must not only clear Latrun, the site of a picturesque monastery of monks pledged to silence, but also must gain command of the heights overlooking Bab el Wad gorge.

Both Arabs and Jews threw aircraft into the fighting which is spreading over the hills where Richard the Lion-Hearted was turned back from his crusade.

Israeli army headquarters announced that one Iraqi two-engine plane of the Anson type was shot down in the Latrun area yesterday. An Arab communique from Baghdad said Iraqi planes bombed a Jewish column advancing toward Latrun and inflicted heavy losses.

The Jews in Jerusalem's Old City gave up after holding out for 11 days against the pounding of Arab Legion guns and dynamite. Their captors found them without

32 Additional Groups Listed As Subversive

One 'Front' Threatens To Sue Clark; Others Boast of Patriotism

By The Associated Press

Thirty-two organizations were tagged "subversive" yesterday by Attorney General Clark.

The 32 are in addition to a list of approximately 90 groups so designated by Clark last November. The new names were announced by the Federal Loyalty Review Board.

The board checks on loyalty of Federal employes as ordered by President Truman. The President has said that membership in an organization designated as "subversive" should be considered as one basis for investigation of a Government worker's loyalty.

Prominent on the original list were the Communist Party and numerous alleged Communist-front organizations, as well as many defunct groups like the German-American Bund.

Marshall Asks U. S. Firmness In 'Cold War'

Warns Against Reds' Trap of Cynical Peace Propaganda

Portland, Oreg., May 28 (AP).—Secretary of State Marshall warned the Nation tonight against falling into a Russian trap baited with "cynical" peace propaganda.

He declared the western democracies can win the cold war only if this Nation sticks to its firm policy toward Russia.

Marshall took this stand in a speech prepared for delivery to the General Federation of Women's Clubs. It was his first important discussion of United States-Soviet relations since the Russians launched their "peace offensive" three weeks ago.

Charges Distortion

The Secretary accused the Soviet Union of "completely distorting the meaning" of American Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith's statement on American policy to Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov early this month.

By striking out two key sentences when Smith's statement was published, Marshall said, the Russians sought to create a false impression that the United States was making overtures for a cold war settlement.

Marshall summarized efforts made thus far by the United States and other nations to create peaceful, stable conditions through the United Nations and the Council of Foreign Ministers.

June 19 Adjournment Aim

GOP to Block Rights Rider If Delay in Draft Threatens

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Efforts to tack civil rights legislation onto the pending selective service bill will be blocked by the Senate GOP leadership if the move endangers approval of the draft.

Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) said yesterday that if Senator William Langer's civil rights amendments threaten to delay the draft indefinitely, leaders will move to table them. This would force an immediate vote, ending any filibuster or prolonged fight.

Taft's announcement followed a decision by Senate GOP policy chiefs to drive for a June 19 adjournment of Congress. A speed-up of procedure, plus Saturday and some night sessions, was ordered to enable the legislators to quit in time for the Republican National Convention in Philadelphia on June 21.

The Senate Republican policy chief said that no filibuster or long delay was anticipated over the so-called Russell amendment to the draft bill.

Southern Senators indicated earlier they might "talk at length" on this other racial issue amendment. Sponsored by Senator Richard Russell (D., Ga.), it would bar any enlisted man from being placed in a "mixed" racial unit.

But Taft indicated that he did expect a filibuster by Langer in an effort to force adoption of the entire civil rights program as a rider to the draft bill.

His stand made it evident that Senate leaders do not regard the latter as a proper vehicle for a showdown on the controversial civil rights measure.

But other obstacles still were in the way of passage of the military manpower bill. Many House members were reported to be cooling to the draft, now that the world tension has eased in recent weeks. Some fear was expressed by the bill's backers that if the trend continued, it might be defeated.

There is much sentiment in the House to delay any consideration

U. S. Joins Russia In Palestine Plan

41 Interned Americans To Be Freed

Lake Success, May 28 (AP).—The United States joined amid cheers today in Russia's demand for United Nations force to stop the Palestine fighting.

U. N. delegates generally conceded, however, that the Security Council is not yet ready to approve the strongest measures possible under the Charter.

Instead, informed sources said, the council was more likely to adopt some version of Britain's plan for one final try at peaceful mediation before getting tough.

No Vote Reached

France and Colombia indorsed the Russian resolution during the afternoon session, but the Council did not reach a vote tonight. It adjourned until 9:30 a. m. Saturday.

The Council received a telegram from its American-Belgian-French Truce Commission in Jerusalem saying the Holy Sepulchre was in imminent peril from Arab bombardment.

Another telegram from the same source said the Jewish military commander in Jerusalem had informed the Truce Commission the Jews would take reprisals on holy places if the Arabs continued to shell the Great Synagogue.

These communications apparently were sent from Jerusalem before the Arab capture of the Old City today.

The French, deeply concerned about the safety of the holy shrines, proposed a resolution calling on Arabs and Jews to stop hostilities in the Old City by noon (EST) Saturday. That resolution also went over until Saturday without action when several delegates said they needed time to study it.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet deputy foreign minister, fighting to persuade the Council to take strong action to stop the war, said he wanted to speak Saturday before a vote is taken.

Applause for Announcement

Warren R. Austin, chief United States delegate, told the Council "the United States supports the draft resolution proposed by the Soviet Union." The Russian measure was almost identical with a United States proposal ditched by the Council last Saturday.

Cheers and hand-clapping broke out as Austin spoke in the crowded chamber. The noise momentarily drowned out the gavel-banging of France's Alexandre Parodi, the Council president for May.

Parodi said he would clear the chamber if the people applauded or demonstrated again.

The 41 Americans who were seized by Lebanese authorities while en route to Palestine last week have accepted their freedom on Lebanon's terms—that they return directly to the United States.

The State Department said arrangements are being made for the repatriation of the men, who have been held in a Lebanese internment barracks since their removal from the American Export Liner Marine Carp in Beirut Harbor nine days ago. Lebanon claimed they were going to Palestine to fight the Arab armies that have invaded the new Jewish state of Israel.

Lowell Pinkerton, United States Minister in Lebanon, polled the Americans and reported all said "they are willing to return directly to the United States."

Lebanon had rejected one American demand for their unconditional release. It stated then that they would be freed only if they returned home and did not try to go on to the Holy Land.

A second American protest was sent to Beirut this week, and the State Department made it clear the incident cannot be regarded as closed until an answer is received.

The department refused to say what was in the second note. The first said the United States could not permit foreign governments to discriminate against bearers of American passports because of race, creed or color.

Department press spokesman Michael J. McDermott said that still was the official position of this country.

unofficial or personal in character.

"In normal circumstances, I should respond at once to your present invitation as a citizen and servant of the Republic and sit in with you frankly to state my views, whether they might parallel or cut across already determined policies or concepts being advanced by others.

"But the existing circumstances are not normal and my return at this time, however sincere its purpose, would be misunderstood and condemned by many as politically inspired and much that I might be obligated in good conscience to say would lose its effect under the impeaching process of doubt thereby aroused in the public mind."

MacArthur said basic policies on Far Eastern appropriations already have been determined and there is little on details he could add to what he has already said directly or through representatives.

Saying any goodwill manifestation on his return would stem from the Pacific victory to which "countless gallant Americans, living and dead" contributed, he said "usurpation of such goodwill by me to serve a political end would be a shameful breach of their faith and a betrayal of the mutual trust on which was erected the cornerstone of the Pacific victory."

MacArthur did not refer by name to the Republican convention in offering to return to testify at a later date "following settlement of the political issues to be resolved next month."

"Nor do I see in passing events such cause for concern as would render the time element one of paramount urgency, and I am therefore hopeful that you will find my appearance at a later date no less satisfactory for your purposes."

Ervin Hohensee, executive secretary of the national MacArthur for President headquarters, urged a letter campaign to get the President to "command" his return before Congress adjourns.

Another MacArthur booster, Representative A. L. Miller (R., Nebr.) suggested the Senate committee make its invitation an order.

But Senator Bridges promised only to place the letter before his full committee when it meets next Tuesday.

"I don't believe the committee will press for his return," Bridges added: "If anything should happen while he was away, I certainly wouldn't want the responsibility of having him back here."

In Alton, Ill., Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, head of the National Veterans Committee for MacArthur for President, who had offered to go to Tokyo and escort the general back, said that from previous communications he had been of the opinion MacArthur would not come to the United States this year.

Chairman W. G. Andrews (R., N. Y.), chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, said his group will "undoubtedly wish to hear General MacArthur if he returns" but he has received no request from committee members to call him back.

Andrews disclosed that he wired Wainwright on May 20 that MacArthur's testimony would be of value "but unfortunately his position as a candidate for President to my mind precludes this at the moment."

"Certainly so far as I know there is nothing to preclude his issuing a statement from Tokyo covering the important considerations," Andrews also wired Wainwright.

"I personally would welcome this and if he really is a candidate for President he ought to make such a statement — the sooner the better."

food and short of ammunition.

The surrender, made under conditions laid down by King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan, came after a final assault by Jewish forces outside the walls was beaten off by Trans-Jordan's Legionnaires.

The Jews who gave up numbered between 1500 and 1600. Of the total an estimated 300 were women and children. They will be turned over to the International Red Cross together with the old men. Younger men will be placed in a concentration camp "outside Palestine."

The Jews made their last stand in three ancient houses near the south wall. Legion infantrymen were engaged in an assault on those battered buildings when two rabbis arrived at the Arab lines under a white flag.

Fighting continued in the modern sections of Jerusalem after the surrender in the Old City. Much of the modern city is in Jewish hands.

The Jews claimed a victory in northern Palestine. They said Israeli troops captured the Arab town of Zir'in, six miles north of Jenin and on one of the boundary lines set up in the United Nations partition scheme. Jenin is the northern pivot of the triangle running through Nablus and Tulkarm, where the strength of the Arab irregular volunteer army was concentrated.

On the upper Jordan front, the Jews said they shot down two twin-engine Iraqui planes. The Jewish radio, voice of Galilee, said Israeli planes raided the El Kunei-tra area east of the Sea of Galilee in Syria. An Arab troop concentration center is located there.

Israeli ground forces in night penetrations attacked Baniyas, a mile inside Syria, the broadcast said. Arab residents were reported to have evacuated Baniyas after the Jewish raid.

Britain Recalls Officers

Britain has ordered 21 of her officers, on loan to the Arab Legion, to withdraw from Palestine but not from King Abdullah's forces. The British say 16 other officers with the Legion were hired directly by Abdullah and are not subject to British orders. These include Brig. John Glubb Pasha, commander of the Trans-Jordan troops.

Count Folke Bernadotte of Sweden, appointed by the United Nations to try to mediate the Palestine warfare, arrived in Cairo. He said he had a plan of his own which he declined to disclose to newsmen.

A Prague dispatch quoted an informant as saying two planeloads of Czechoslovak army officers were flown to Palestine yesterday to serve as instructors to the Israeli army.

of the draft until the Senate acts. Majority Leader Charles A. Halleck said that while the leadership has made no decision on the point, many members are urging such a course.

Opponents of selective service, and members who don't want to vote on the controversial issue in an election year, think the Senate may get bogged down in the racial issue fight. This might make House action unnecessary.

Few Meetings Asked

These legislative maneuvers on the draft followed a decision by Senate GOP chiefs to adjourn Congress by June 19, "if humanly possible."

In an effort to get through three weeks hence, committees were asked to abandon all but emergency meetings so that the legislators could devote their full time to bills already on the calendar. Seven-hour daily sessions, Saturday meetings and some night gatherings also are planned. A night session is tentatively set for next Wednesday.

Senator Taft said a June 19 adjournment depends on whether Congress can pass the appropriations bills and other "must" legislation by then. What will go on the "must" calendar probably will be decided Tuesday at a joint meeting of the Republican Senate and House high command.

After the Senate policy group's announcement, Halleck set a heavy schedule for the House next week. It includes passage of four appropriation bills — Army-Air Force, Navy, ECA, and a supplemental Treasury measure.

To "Put On Heat"

"We're going to put on the heat," Halleck said.

This schedule postpones House consideration of the draft bill until at least week after next. However, House rules permit faster action than in the Senate, and if the latter passes the measure, it can be acted upon in the lower body in a couple of days.

Chief danger of the bill failing is an adverse House vote. Republican leaders believe that President Truman would recall Congress if a Senate filibuster or the last-minute rush of business prevented the measure coming up between now and June 19.

Many members are talking along these lines: the world situation has eased, we are in no emergency, Russia doesn't want war, it is not necessary to pass peacetime conscription unless there is threat of war. Others point out that this attitude may be the real motive behind Russia's recent "peace offensive"—with the aim of blocking the draft.

Failure of the draft, it is pointed out, would nullify much of the Nation's rearmament program, as the new weapons to be bought with the military appropriations to be voted next week require men to use them. Defeat of selective service also would weaken America's world position irreparably, draft backers said.

Halleck conceded there has been a shift of House sentiment in the past few weeks, but said he believed the draft bill would pass. He stated however, that he hoped an amendment would be adopted, leaving it to President Truman's discretion as to whether inductions will be ordered, depending upon world conditions in mid-summer or early fall.

Taft said the "must" legislative list includes about 15 important bills. First is the displaced persons bill, now before the Senate. Next is the draft, which Taft said probably will be taken up Wednesday. After this will come the Vandenberg resolution indorsing western European or other regional defense alliances formed under the U. N.

What will follow is not yet decided. Among the major bills awaiting action are the civil rights, renewal of the Reciprocal Trade Act, extension of the terms of Atomic Energy Commission members, and restriction of the Communist Party.

29 Latvian Refugees On Way Here in Ketch

Dover, England, May 28 (AP).—A party of 29 Latvians who say they are refugees from deportation to Russia arrived here today on their way to the United States.

The group called at Dover in the small auxiliary ketch Gundel to permit their skipper, 62-year-old John W. Roseburg, to contact the Latvian Minister in London to put their papers in order. They left Goeteborg, Sweden, this week. The group includes seven children.

Soviet Conditional U. N. Vote On Admissions Ruled Illegal

The Hague, May 28 (AP).—The International Court of Justice ruled today that Russia had no legal right to cast her conditional vote last year for admission of Italy and Finland to the United Nations.

The Soviet Union voted to accept these nations if Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria were admitted at the same time. The U. N. General Assembly voted November 17, 1947, to ask the court for an advisory opinion on the legality of such an action.

The court ruled, nine to six, that no condition could be attached to such a vote except those which might be provided for specifically in the U. N. charter.

(Andrei A. Gromyko, Russian deputy foreign minister who cast the vote, said at Lake Success the court was not authorized to "make an interpretation on membership applications." He said all applications should be considered again, perhaps before the opening of the 1948 U. N. Assembly this September in Paris. He said Rusia would express her position whenever the applications came up again.)

Judges of the United States, Egypt, Belgium, Mexico, China, Norway, Chile, Brazil and El Salvador voted for the majority. Dissents were cast by France, Poland, Britain, Canada, Yugoslavia and Russia.

Powers Agree On Control Plan for Ruhr

London, May 28 (U.P.).—The six-power conference on western Germany reached agreement on the thorny question of setting up an international control authority over the Ruhr, it was reported authoritatively today.

Agreement was possible after the United States made several concessions to France. No details were disclosed, however.

The Ruhr agreement spurred hopes that the stalemate over other issues relating to the future political setup in western Germany also will be broken.

Late today, the chief delegates had failed to clear the final obstacle to a full agreement but decided to keep on trying. The talks will go on through Monday, at least.

General Clay Takes Part

Today's meeting ended with France still holding out for slower progress towards the proposed establishment of a western German government and demanding American security guarantees against any Soviet action as well as any future aggression.

Chief delegates authorized committee talk Saturday and again Sunday, if necessary, to break the deadlock. The chief delegates will meet again Monday.

Gen. Lucius Clay, military governor of the United States zone of Germany, arrived today by air to participate in the talks. Gen. Brian Robertson, British military governor, also was present.

The delegations were expected to make recommendations to their governments in the light of the progress attained thus far. The governments, in turn, can modify their proposals if they wish, to permit a final agreement.

It was understood that the proposed Ruhr authority will control distribution of the rich basin's coal, iron and steel. In compliance with United States suggestions, it will be linked closely with the European Recovery Program.

British sources indicated the United States had abandoned its demands that the Economic Cooperation Administrator and the United States military governor for Germany should have what was termed as overriding rights on the decisions of the international Ruhr authority. This was believed to give France a real voice in the administration of the Ruhr.

Reparations Violations Laid To Russians

Berlin, May 28 (U.P.).—The Kommandatura, four-powered governing body of occupied Berlin, ended its longest session on record tonight in complete disagreement. There were signs it soon might cease functioning altogether.

The meeting was described officially as "deliberately blocking and unpleasant" because of Soviet tactics.

The session broke up late tonight after a 13-hour session at which a British official charged that Russia still is taking reparations from current German production in violation of the Potsdam agreement.

Maj. Gen. E. O. Herbert, British military governor, told a meeting of the four-power Allied Kommandatura that Russia authorities had "distorted" their actions through propaganda devices.

World Bank Loans To Five Nations Total 513 Million

Atlantic City, N. J., May 28 (AP). Morton M. Mendels of Washington, secretary of the International Bank, said today the bank has made six loans totaling 513 million dollars in the past two years and has 470 million available for additional grants.

In an address to the closing session of the fifty-second annual convention of the Maryland Bankers' Association, Mendels said the European recovery program complements rather than interfere with the bank's operations.

The six loans made so far are 250 million dollars to France; 195 million dollars to the Netherlands, 40 million dollars to Denmark, 12 million dollars to Luxembourg and two loans totaling 16 million to Chile, Mendels said.

Resistance Group Formed By Czechs

London, May 28 (AP).—Twenty-four members of the pre-Communist Czechoslovak Parliament made a solemn resolution in London today to fight "to restore political freedom" in their homeland.

The fugitive lawmakers, comprising almost a tenth of the 300-member parliament, laid the foundation for what they hope will become a world-wide Czechoslovak resistance movement.

While an observer from the Czechoslavak embassy looked on, the "shadow parliament" declared the present Communist-dominated government in Prague illegal, next Sunday's single-ticket election in their homeland invalid, and the Communist-drafted constitution void.

It also declared the Czech alliance with Russia no longer valid since that pact bound Russia not to interfere in Czechoslavakia's affairs. The members declared themselves the last freely elected represntativs of their people.

Election to Be Free, Premier Tells Czechs

Prague, Czechoslovakia, May 28 (U.P.).—Communist Premier Klement Gottwald told Czech workers today that next Sunday's parliamentary elections would be freer and more democratic "than in any of those countries which try to give us lessons in democracy."

Gottwald and other Czech government officials wound up the Communist preelection campaign. Factories and offices throughout the country stopped work for an hour to hear the speeches by radio.

Steinhardt Sees Benes, Reports He Is Well

Prague, May 28 (AP).—Laurence A. Steinhardt, United States Ambassador, talked for an hour with President Eduard Benes at his country home in Sezimovo Usti today and said he found the President "relatively well, considering his age and condition."

The Ambassador, as dean of the diplomatic corps, carried greetings to the President, who was 64 today. His report ran contrary to stories from London and to some stories in Prague that the President recently had suffered two severe strokes and that his recovery was uncertain.

The President's brother, Jan, said last night that his brother was gravely ill and that he had made his last farewells to him. Friends of the President said, however, that the brother had not seen very much of the President in the last year and that the state of the President's health compared to a year ago must have furnished a strong contrast that impressed the brother unfavorably.

Chile Asks U.N. To Act on Red Stand on Wives

Lake Success, May 28 (AP).—Chile complained to the United Nations tonight against Russia's refusal to release Russian wives of foreigners from the Soviet Union.

The Chilean government formally demanded that the U. N. discuss the situation at the General Assembly opening in Paris September 21.

The Chilean complaint contains two counts:

1. That Russia has violated human rights by preventing Russian wives of foreigners from leaving the country with their husbands.

2. That Russia violated traditional diplomatic practices by refusing to allow a member of the family of the former Chilean ambassador to Russia to leave the country accompanied by the ambassador.

Chilean Delegate Hernan Santa Cruz said the Chilean involved is Alvaro, the son of Luis D. Cruz Ocampo, who was ambassador to Russia. The Soviet government has barred the departure of the son's wife, Lidia Lesina, and their son, from Russia.

Foster Says Reds Would Defy Law

WILLIAM Z. FOSTER
". . . We would not register"

By The Associated Press

William Z. Foster, leader of the American Communist Party, yesterday attacked a bill designed to curb Communist activities and told Senators his party would not comply if it becomes law.

His blast came in the second day of hearings before the Senate Judiciary Committee on the Mundt-Nixon bill which already has received a thumping indorsement from the House. Henry A. Wallace, third party presidential candidate, is the headline witness today.

Foster declared the bill would create a "Fascist police state" and set up a "caste of political untouchables."

"If the Mundt-Nixon bill were to pass, the Communist Party would not perjure itself by admitting any resemblance to the monstrous caricature of its nature and purposes drawn in this bill," he said.

The measure would establish heavy fines and jail sentences for trying to set up a foreign-controlled totalitarian dictatorship in this country. The Communist Party would be required to register annually with the Justice Department and furnish the names and addresses of its members. Failure to register, or false registration, would be punishable by up to five years imprisonment and $5000 fine.

Won't Register, He Says

Communist fronts likewise would have to register but they would not have to file membership lists. Communists would be barred from nonelective Government positions, and couldn't be granted passports. Their propaganda would have to be labeled as such.

Foster said the Communist Party has no intention of exposing its members to "persecution, ostracism and blacklisting in employment" by registering their names. He said all provisions of the measure "are based on the premise that Hitler's big lie has become the gospel truth by which America must light its way."

Foster's statement was read to the committee by John Gates, who accompanied him, but Foster himself was questioned.

Committee Chairman Wiley (R., Wis.) wanted to know whether the Communists would support Henry Wallace for President.

"The Communist Party will support the third party," Foster answered.

Foster Asked Income

Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) asked the size of Foster's income. Foster said $65 a week, but he didn't see what that had to do with the Mundt-Nixon bill. Then Ferguson wanted to know whether he gets anything "from Russian sources."

Foster said the question was "ridiculous." But he replied: "Not a cent."

He also told the committee there hadn't been any Russian aggression in Poland, Czechoslovakia and other countries, but that "the United States is out to dominate the world."

Representative Vito Marcantonio, American-Labor Congressman from New York, also urged defeat of the bill. Ferguson tied into him, too, suggesting that Marcantonio was following the Communist Party line.

Marcantonio denied that. He said he was just saying "what every liberal American says." Responding to another question by Ferguson, Marcantonio said he does not believe communism is a menace to America.

Other Opposition

Osmond K. Fraenkel of the American Civil Liberties Union also opposed the bill, calling it "obnoxious and, in important respects, unconstitutional." Lewis G. Hines opposed the bill on behalf of the American Federation of Labor.

The National Farmers Union made public a telegram to Wiley saying the bill violates the Bill of Rights. The Farmers Union also expressed fear that the measure might have an adverse effect on such organizations as farmers' cooperatives.

Chairman Wiley meanwhile solicited cooperation of the House Committee on Un-American Activities in tracing the origin of a deluge of telegrams to Congressmen in opposition to the bill. Wiley said he feels sure that many of them are "Communist-inspired."

Smuts Quits As Premier

monwealth and the western democracies, it said.

(The British press expressed fear of yet another loosening of the links of empire, but sought consolation in the fact that the campaign had been fought mostly on domestic issues and expressed the hope Malan's ambitions to set up a "free republic" had been put in cold storage.

(The London Daily Mail said the election could have "serious repercussions" on imperial defense plans. These plans, since the withdrawal from Palestine and weakening of the British hold in the Suez Canal area of Egypt, call for establishment of Britain's main rear base in East Africa. Such a base would depend on South Africa for support.

(The resignation of Smuts caused South African gold and industrial shares to fall on the London Stock Exchange, where a market value of 100 million dollars was wiped out.)

Malan will fly to Pretoria, the capital, this weekend to begin the task of taking over the government.

Philosophically, Smuts remarked, "these things happen. What is to be will be."

Personally defeated in his own constituency, he will retire to his farm at Doornkloff.

Among Nationalist members elected to parliament is at least one who was interned during the last war, and a number of others who openly sympathized with the Germans. Descendants of German immigrants are numerous in the Nationalist and Afrikaner parties.

Malan himself has disavowed the support of Nazis and Fascists, and the leaders of the party describe themselves as Democrats. But inside the party are many who would like to see South Africa break away from the British Commonwealth and form a republic, who have a strong isolationist outlook and are untiring in their fight for the rights of the Afrikaan speaking section of the population which forms more than half the white population.

Marshall Asks U. S. Firmness

But these efforts thus far have failed, he said.

Then he went on:

"There is an overwhelming demand for some agreement to wipe out fear of war and to bring about a return to normal conditions, and therefore strong resentment of any statement or lack of action that appears contrary to the fulfillment of that desire.

"My friends, these great desires are impelled by deep emotions but those emotions must not lead us into ill-advised and trustful actions which hazard the future of this country . . .

"I feel certain that the continuation of the firm course we have been following will lead to the solution of the worst of our difficulties and will eventually clear the way to a sound basis for peace.

"I am absolutely certain that only such a firm and determined course can save the situation for the democracies.

Hits at Tariff Move

Marshall said the conduct of American policy must be consistent and reassure the worried people of Europe that they can rely upon it with confidence. And he declared: "The present destructive proposal for the amendment or emasculation of the Reciprocal Trade Agreement Acts is a case in point."

Marshall said also that the American Government must not resort to propaganda devices which would gain immediate advantages yet "reflect on the integrity of our purpose or actions in the future."

He thus replied to critics who have accused the State Department of failing to meet the propaganda challenge of the Soviet peace offensive with effective counter-propaganda.

The Soviet Union, said Marshall, enjoys a short-range advantage in conducting diplomacy because its government can maneuver without the complete freedom of expression and debate which exists in the democracies. The Secretary added:

"Such a method enjoys great advantages for the moment. In the end, I think it will defeat itself, if history is a true indication of probabilities. But in the short-term issues, like those of the present period, it does present great difficulties for us.

"For example, we have today a heated public discussion as to what is the proper procedure for this Government in its relations with the Soviet Union — a discussion which largely ignores the fact that we are faced with a deliberate, cynical propaganda campaign to offset a sincere effort on our part to establish a basis for profitable negotiations and agreements leading to a stabilization of the world situation."

To List More Groups

As in the case of the original list, the supplemental list, except in the case of California labor school, did not announce specific headquarters locations.

Clark said the investigation of organizations suspected of being totalitarian, Fascist, Communist, or subversive, is a continuing one and that additional organizations and groups will continue to be listed from time to time.

Abner Green, executive secretary of the American Committee for the Protection of Foreign-Born, defended the committee as "a nonpolitical and nonpartisan organization."

"We have helped thousands of non-citizens become American citizens and saved hundreds of Americans from deportation," he said.

The national council of American-Soviet friendship reaffirmed the protest it had made last November when it was included in the original list and announced that it would file a suit against Clark, based on the original listing, "within a week."

In Detroit, Jack Raskin, executive secretary of the Michigan civil rights congress, challenged Clark "to produce one piece of evidence to indicate that any action of our organization has done anything except strengthen our democracy."

In Milwaukee, Mrs. Josephine Nordstrand, executive director of the Wisconsin civil rights congress, of which the Milwaukee branch listed by Clark is a part, said that "Mr. Clark is setting himself up as the supreme arbiter over the thoughts and opinions of the American people. She said the Wisconsin conference on social legislation, also on the Clark list, "now is inactive." She identified herself as secretary of the conference.

A spokesman for the people's educational association said at Los Angeles "we are proud of our record."

Subversive Charges Denied

Director Sidney Davison said "We were a school, teaching a liberal, progressive interpretaton of what s going on in the world. Unfortunately we are living in times when, unless one agrees with the powers that be, he is ipso facto subversive."

The school has been suspended for the summer.

The American League for Peace and Democracy, also listed in Clark's report, has been out of existence for more than a year.

Peter Vukcevich, administrative secretary of the American Committee for Yugoslav Relief, Inc., said:

"Ours is not a subversive organization. It is sending aid through the Yugoslav Red Cross to the people of Yugoslavia—that's our only purpose. We are not interested in politics."

The American Slav Congress said it "stands by its record as an organization that worked most effectively in defense of our Nation during the war. We are no less dedicated today to our Nation's best interests."

A spokesman for the American Council for a Democratic Greece said it "seeks the reversal of a foreign policy which dishonors America; the council seeks the adoption of a democratic foreign policy."

that the United States continue in the foreign broadcast field," Denny told the committee.

At the present time, all overseas broadcasts beamed either by NBC or CBS are paid for by the United States Government. Only the broadcasts of World-Wide radio headed by Walter Lemon of Boston operate without full Government subsidy.

Want to Retain Frequencies

Denny told Chenoweth the idea of temporary interruption of the service was unworkable.

"These programs cannot be interrupted. Once you stop, other countries grab the frequencies," Denny said, "and you cannot get back on."

George V. Allen, Assistant Secretary of State in charge of the Voice program, agreed with Denny.

Allen said the State Department had not checked the scripts either before or after they were broadcast.

"In the future," said Allen, "we must have prior supervision over every one of these scripts."

Allen said the State Department thought it had been carrying out the "clear intent" of Congress in farming broadcasts out to private networks.

Snapped Chenoweth, "Congress never intended for the State Department to turn over all responsibility to the N. B. C. or any other private broadcasting company."

"Objective" Goal Disputed

The agreement yesterday by NBC and the State Department that all broadcasts should have prior review by the Government is regarded as of especial significance.

Actually insiders in both management and Government find the congressional requirement ordering the State Department to broadcast as much as possible through existing radio chains has caused a lot of working at cross-purposes.

Private networks have taken the position that they are experts in the field of radio entertainment and that they must give an unbiased and objective picture.

The State Department, on the other hand, thinks of the "Voice of America" as a means of combatting hostile propaganda, and does not believe that a totally objective approach is always wise. What is understood within the borders of the United States as humor, State Department officials believe, is not always understood overseas.

Each Critical Of Other

The networks, say some State Department officials, have been understandably reluctant to allow precensorship of programs. The networks, on the other hand, say they have not, in the past, found State Department officials anxious to cooperate with them.

Operations of the "Voice" for the present fiscal year are costing the United States $11,500,000. Senate-House conferences on next year's appropriations are now in progress.

Senator Homer Capehart (R., Ind.) aroused a hornet's nest in the Senate Wednesday over the Latin American broadcasts after the Senate had restored House-approved cuts in the current budget for the "Voice."

Allen told the subcommittee that his department does not now have sufficient personnel to precheck all programs as thoroughly as should be done. At least 20 more persons would be needed, he said.

Representativse Walt Horan (R., Wash.) told the House yesterday that his House Appropriations subcommittee is now analyzing a number of "Voice of America" broadcasts which have not yet been made public.

The findings, Horan said, will be submitted to the conference committee on the State Department appropriations for the foreign information programs.

The two House subcommittees are looking into phases of an issue which has rocked Pennsylvania ave. from the Capitol to the White House.

President Truman has announced he has ordered an inquiry into who was at fault for the Latin-American broadcasts. In the Senate, a Foreign Relations subcommittee has joined with a Senate Expenditures subcommittee, to make a sweeping investigation. And yesterday the State Department revealed it was investigating too.

Members of Congress have described some of the Latin-American broadcasts as following the Communist Party line and have charged they were intended to "sabotage" the United States.

Charles Thayer, acting director of the State Department's International Broadcasting Division, and NBC's Denny agreed yesterday there was no present evidence to show the scripts were deliberately subversive.

Denny said the script writer, Rene Borgia, whom NBC has now fired, based the series "Know North America" on John Gunther's book, "Inside USA" and various WPA guidebooks.

Representative Carter Manasco (D., Ala.) promptly snorted:

"Sure sounds like WPA."

Borgia has insisted he wrote the scripts the way his superior told him to, and he didn't like them himself. Albert Gandero, former head of NBC's Spanish language section, who was transferred and later quit, has now returned to Havana, Cuba.

Allen read the Chenoweth Subcommittee a letter from the Venezuelan-born Borgia in which the writer put all the blame on NBC.

The Assistant Secretary gave the committee a brief biographical sketch of Borgia, including the fact that he had written anti-Communist works.

"Do you mean to say," exploded Chenoweth, "the State Department knowingly permitted a man not born in the United States, who didn't come here until 1939, to tell other countries about our history and life in the United States? I just can't believe it."

Borgia, in one of his letters to Congressmen on this subject, said he was hired by NBC as a translator, and later made to write original scripts. He said he begged to have the "Know North America" series written by someone else and then given to him to translate.

The programs were broadcast in Spanish to Latin-American audiences.

Allen said yesterday the department had had "no reaction at all abroad from any of these scripts."

Chenoweth said a South American had told him people in Latin-America were "disgusted" with the "Voice of America" programs.

Women's Group Asks Apology From Clark

New York, May 28 (AP).—The Congress of American Women today demanded a public apology from Attorney General Tom C. Clark for listing the organization as "subversive."

Fog Forces Odom Down on Bay With Flying Boat Carrying 94

Baltimore, May 28 (AP).—Bill Odom, round-the-world speed flier who has always been lucky at beating fog, brought a big flying boat down to an emergency landing at the head of Chesapeake Bay today.

The 82 Puerto Rican passengers and the 11 members of Odom's crew took it all calmy, but they got hungry when the four-engine Boeing ship was stranded four hours on a mud flat. Fifteen of the passengers were children.

The plane, operated by World Airways, Inc., left San Juan late yesterday for New York, but the flying boat terminal there was closed this morning by fog. Odom circled for an hour and headed for Baltimore. It was soupy here, too.

He signaled the municipal airport control tower that he was landing, but the tower lost radio contact and sent out an alarm. Several residents around Havre de Grace, Md., saw the plane come down near the mouth of the Susquehanna and there was a report it had crashed.

Odom and his crew spotted a break in the heavy skies and a three-mile stretch of open water, so they set her down. The gasoline tanks still held a three-hour supply.

Odom started to taxi the 60 miles to Baltimore but ran into heavy seaweed and grounded on a mud flat. A tug from the Army's Aberdeen Proving Ground pulled the ship off and Odom flew to Baltimore.

Not quite a year ago, he flew alone around the world in 73 hours and 5 minutes in the Reynolds Bombshell.

U. S. Plans to Ship Arms to Iranians

The United States is preparing to ship military supplies costing $59,995,087 to Iran.

The State Department said yesterday that the supplies, all from surplus, will include a few tanks, fighter and cargo planes, guns, ammunition and other equipment.

Plans for the proposed military aid were outlined before the Senate Appropriations Committee by John D. Jernegan, chief of the State Department's division of Greek-Turkish-Iranian affairs.

19 Millions Requested

President Truman sent to Congress on May 25 a request for $19,155,000 for "care, handling and disposal of surplus property abroad."

Of this total, Jernegan said $15,674,000 will be used for the transport and handling of supplies for Iran.

Iran was offered credit up to 25 million dollars last year for the purchase of surplus military supplies. Jernegan said Iran agreed in February to accept credit up to 10 million dollars.

Maj. Gen. W. O. Reeder told the committee the United States "has a commitment to supply Iran."

Jernegan said the supplies are "to maintain the international security" of Iran. He added that the items were "non-aggressive weapons."

Jernegan estimated the "depreciated value" of the supplies at 36 million dollars. But, he said, if they were bought today on the open market the cost would run to 120 million dollars.

To Get Many Planes

Another witness, Col. Joseph Rudder, said the United States proposed to send Iran 45 P-47 fighter planes, 7 C-47 cargo planes, and 84 small liaison and training planes. All will be take from surplus stocks.

Senator Bridges (R., N. H.), committee chairman, wanted to know if there was any chance the Iranian army might use these supplies in the war between the Arabs and the Jews in Palestine.

Jernegan replied the Iranians are Mohammadans, but they are "not on good terms," with the Arabs. He saw no chance of the weapons being turned against the Jews.

Meanwhile, Dwight Grisworld said that the United States has saved Greece from communism.

Grisworld Gives Views

Grisworld, chief of the United States mission to aid Greece, told the Senate Appropriations Committee:

"We went there to keep Greece from falling under the domination of a foreign country and we have accomplished that goal."

If there is no greater pressure there from the north, Grisworld continued, then Greece will be able to establish internal security and wipe out the Communist guerillas.

Griswold spoke out as President Truman sent to the Senate the nomination of Henry F. Grady of California, to be United States Ambassador to Greece. Grady, now Ambassador to India, would go to Athens to succeed Lincoln MacVeagh, transferred to Portugal some time ago.

Grady would have the dual responsibility of diplomatic duties and of supervising American aid to Greece. Grisworld is expected to retire soon from his aid post.

Money Bills May Omit Red Rider

By The Associated Press

The House Appropriations Committee all but called off yesterday its drive to add a Taft-Hartley Act non-Communist twist to Government money bills.

Chairman Taber (R., N. Y.) told newsmen "it may be that we won't be able to do anything about this until next year."

The committee started out two months ago to write into all departmental appropriation bills a provision denying any of the funds for the pay of Government workers who belong to unions which have not complied with the Taft-Hartley law.

Specifically the ban is aimed at unions whose officers have not filed affidavits disavowing communism.

The House approved, with some opposition, inclusion of the language in three 1949 money bills now pending in the Senate.

But it knocked the provision out of the annual Interior Department money bill Thursday, and Taber said it may come out of the other bills before they go to the President.

"There seems to be a lot of confusion about the language," Taber said.

There was plenty of confusion when the House took the ban out of the Interior bill. It did so on the motion of Representative Jensen (R., Iowa), who was handling the $375,692,591 measure for the Appropriations Committee.

But Jensen's amendment removing the language went further than the Iowan had intended. The House suddenly discovered that it had inadvertently voted to jail anyone who strikes against the Government regardless of who pays the salary of the striker.

Heretofore the no-payment provision and the prison sentence applied only to employes of the departments whose money was carried in the individual bills.

Under the Jensen amendment, Representative Marcantonio (ALP, N. Y.) told the House, railroad employes could be sent to jail if they strike while the Government is running the railroads.

"Today it is the railroad workers, tomorrow it could be the miners," Marcantonio said.

Jensen finally yielded to the New Yorker's demand that the House correct its action. He offered an amendment leaving in the bill a ban against paying salaries of persons who strike against the Government or advocate its overthrow by violence, but only if they are paid from Interior Department funds.

Stevenson Urges Aid to Europe

By The Associated Press

Governor Stevenson of Illinois said yesterday that the United States must help Europe to help itself or face the danger of "a world dominated by Russia."

Stevenson, speaking at the commencement exercises of Northwestern University, said that "we must help Europe to help herself, or we shall be left alone in a world dominated by Russia."

White House Steps Into Rail Row Again

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

The White House again took a hand in the long-standing rail labor dispute yesterday after a strike threat was postponed another two weeks by Federal court order.

But it reported last night that "no progress has been made this week."

Justice Alan T. Goldsborough, with the consent of the three unions involved and the Government, extended until June 11 the no-strike order he issued May 10. The original order followed Government seizure of the railroads a few hours before a scheduled strike.

Immediately after Goldsborough's action yesterday Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman called representatives of the rail operators and of the unions to separate meetings at the White House. It was hoped that these meetings would lead to a resumption of joint negotiations.

However, late in the day the conferees called a recess until Tuesday.

May Settle For 15½ Cents

It was reported that the unions were willing to settle for a 15½-cent-an-hour wage increase plus three rules changes which would result in higher pay. They originally had demanded pay increases averaging 30 cents an hour and 23 rules changes.

The 15½-cent figure was arrived at by a fact-finding board set up under the National Mediation Act and was accepted by all other unions and by the operators. Some eight rules changes also were proposed by the board and accepted by the operators and the majority of the unions.

Those which have held out are the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and the Switchmen's Union.

The operators have balked at granting these unions any greater increases than the others received, contending that this would result in demands for the same treatment by the majority. The three rules changes which now prevent settlement are considered as concessions which would have to be extended to all unions if granted to the three now holding out.

In Justic Goldsborough's court Thursday the unions filed a motion to terminate the present antistrike order on the ground that Goldsborough had no right to issue it and President Truman had none to seize the roads. Goldsborough ruled yesterday that this motion was the union's answer to the Government motion to continue the injunction.

He then gave the Justice Department until June 3 to file briefs opposing the unions' motion and set June 9 to receive an answer from the unions to the Government's briefs.

Seized Under Old Law

Mr. Truman seized the roads under a 1916 law designed to insure operation of the Nation's transportation system in time of emergency. The Supreme Court has ruled that Federal judges have authority to issue orders to prevent strikes against the Government by its own employes.

The unions maintain the 1916 law was not applicable in the current case and that seizure of the railroads did not make their members Government employes. They also contend that the Railway Labor Act grants no authority to compel employes to continue at work after its provisions have been complied with and that the cases should have been brought in courts where the unions have their headquarters.

Bag Snatcher Gets $231

A fast-stepping bandit yesterday snatched a bank bag and $231 from a 20-year-old woman sales clerk at 13th and G sts. nw. shortly before 11 a. m. and escaped through busy traffic.

The bold sidewalk robbery was witnessed by several bystanders who admitted that before they could collect their wits he was off and away in an automobile driven by an accomplice.

Victim was Miss Marion Lambert, of 256 Park ave., Takoma Park, Md., employe of a Montgomery Ward sales office at 714 13th st. nw. Had the robbery been staged on her way to the bank instead of during her return, she said, the bandit would have taken $800 cash and more than $200 in checks.

Manny Simonaro, proprietor of a barber shop at 704 13th st. nw., said the robbery happened so fast he had time only to observe tha tthe bandit "needed a haircut." He looked like "Nature Boy," said Simonaro.

Police were given a better description by other witnesses who had also noted the automobile's license tag numbers. The tags, police, said, were issued to a man with a police record. He has since moved from his last recorded address, police said.

Witnesses said the bandid darted through moving traffic to cross 13th st. after snatching the bank bag. The waiting car sped north on 13th st., turned left against a red light on I st., and disappeared.

3 Virginia Doctors Fined $27,000 Total

Richmond, Va., May 28 (AP).—Federal Judge John Paul today imposed a three-year prison term on Dr. Warren W. Koontz, 50, Lynchburg surgeon and urologist, who pleaded nolo contendere in Federal District Court to concealing more than $28,000 of his 1945 income to evade payment of $19,703.78 in taxes.

The judge suspended execution of the sentence on condition that Dr. Koontz pay a $10,000 fine within 30 days, that he be of uniform good behavior, that he violate no criminal laws of the United States or any State in which he might reside, that he report to the probation officer at such times and places he might be directed and that he keep accurate and correct records of his earnings at his office at all times for the purpose of periodic examination by agents of the Treasury Department.

In two other tax cases disposed of today, Judge Paul imposed a $12,000 fine on Dr. George G. Snarr, Winchester oculist, and levied a $5000 fine on Dr. Julian C. Major, 48-year-old Alexandria dentist.

Both had pleaded nolo contendere—Dr. Snarr to charges of concealing nearly $40,000 in income from 1941 through 1944 to evade taxes amounting to more than $17,000, and Dr. Major to charges of concealing nearly $17,000 in 1942, 1943 and 1944 income to evade taxes of more than $4000.

Humrickhouse estimated Dr. Snarr's net worth to be $130,000 and recommended a $20,000 fine. The judge, however, imposed a $3000 fine in each of the four counts against the Winchester man.

The judge agreed with the district attorney that the $5000 fine was sufficient punishment for Dr. Major, whose net worth was estimated to be $40,000.

Both fines were ordered paid by July 1.

Judge Paul yesterday imposed a fine of $12,000 on Dr. Guy Ross Harrison, Richmond dental surgeon who had pleaded nolo contendere to charges of concealing more than $21,000 in income for the calendar years 1942 through 1945 to evade payment of taxes totaling $6199.87.

'Oligarchy' Spelling Wins Championship for Ohio Girl

"O-l-i-g-a-r-c-h-y" brought Jean Chappelear, 14, of Ravenna, Ohio, the twenty-first annual National Spelling Bee championship yesterday.

Jean, who studied her spelling while baby-sitting, edged out Darrell Flavelle, also 14, of 3337 Baker st. se., for the crown in the contest held in the National Press Building auditorium.

Third place went to Rosemary Schirmer, 13, of White Oak, Ohio, who lost out in the twenty-eighth round by misspelling "ecclesiastical."

Jean, according to contest rules, had to spell one more word after successfully negotiating "oligarchy" when Darrell fumbled it. She handled the word, "psychiatric," without difficulty to win first place among 40 contestants from about four million grammar school students.

As first prize in the contest sponsored by various newspapers, she was awarded $500 and a trip to New York City. Second award is $300, and third, $100.

The contest between the new champion and the runner-up required about 82 rounds to produce the winner. Twice the two finalists missed both words and thus both stayed in the running.

It was the longest spell-down in the contest's history.

The judges exhausted their list of 490 words and had to scrounge for 103 more before crowning the winner. No more than 389 words had ever been needed in the past.

The contest got off to a false start and Benson S. Alleman of American University, official word pronouncer, apologized for being a "tenderfoot" at the job.

In the first round, Dickie Crews, 13, of Lynchburg, Va., who misspelled "tussle," and Sara Tornay, also 13, of Miami, Fla., who dropped an "s" in "possessed," were ruled out of the contest.

Then Alleman discovered that the first round is merely a warm-up and the mistakes didn't count.

Contestants last night were guests of honor at a banquet at the Willard Hotel.

The tournament was sponsored by members of the Scripps-Howard chain and other newspapers. Darrell, an eighth grade student at Eliot Junior High School, was entered by The Washington Daily News.

MacArthur's "No"

We agree with Senator Saltonstall that the move to bring General MacArthur back at this time had political implications. Indeed, they are fairly obvious. General MacArthur's stock as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination took a nosedive as a result of his poor showing in the Wisconsin primary. If the general were to return and be feted with the usual parades before the convention, his stature undoubtedly would rise. This might not succeed in getting the nomination for MacArthur, but it certainly would promote confusion among the present contenders for the nomination, especially the more liberal candidates. Whether or not General MacArthur intends to follow General Eisenhower's lead in renouncing any political ambitions and disavowing his presidential boosters we do not know. But certainly he has done the security of his reputation as a great military leader no harm by refusing to sully it with the undignified role he was asked to play.

General MacArthur must have known that the bait was being used in order to put him in the position of dragging the ERP over the coals. The ostensible purpose was to give him an opportunity to testify on foreign aid. And to whom? Of course, China; for aid to China is the only possible excuse for linking MacArthur with the European Recovery Program. It does not require much perception to see in Senator Bridges' maneuver another attempt to bog down European recovery appropriations in an extraneous squabble over China similar to the one which threatened the original ERP authorization.

Cadogan's Statement

Sir Alexander Cadogan's statement at Lake Success sheds light both on Britain's treaty obligations in the Middle East as well as on events between the ending of the mandate and the U. N.'s cease-fire order. It appears that in all these treaties the reservation is entered that Britain has a prior obligation to the United Nations. Sir Alexander reaffirms this priority. But the reminder merely underlines the criticism of Britain contained in the final report of the U. N.'s Palestine Commission. This was issued a few days before Sir Alexander spoke. On November 29, 1947, the General Assembly recommended the partition of Palestine with economic union. It called upon the Security Council to determine as a threat to the peace any attempt to alter by force the settlement envisaged by that resolution. The commission confesses its inability to carry out the task entrusted to it by the General Assembly, and, inter alia, gives as one of the reasons:

> The general policy of the mandatory power has been not to take any measure which might be construed as involving it in the implementation of the Assembly's resolution. It did not accept the provision of the resolution calling for a progressive transfer of authority to the commission; insisted on retaining undivided control of Palestine until the termination of the mandate; and informed the commission that it "would not regard favorably" the arrival of the commission in Palestine earlier than a fortnight before the date of termination of the mandate.

By that time the area was in such a turmoil that the commission was hamstrung, particularly as it got no help from the Security Council, where the British played the part of obstructionist.

The commission goes on from a criticism of Great Britain to an impeachment of the Arabs. It says:

> More important still, Arab elements, both inside and outside of Palestine, have exerted organized, intensive effort toward defeating the purposes of the resolution of the General Assembly. To this end, threats, acts of violence, and infiltration of organized, armed, uniformed Arab bands into Palestinian territory have been employed. As early as 16 February, the commission, in its first special report to the Security Council, stated that "powerful Arab interests, both inside and outside Palestine, are defying the resolution of the General Assembly and are engaged in a deliberate effort to alter by force the settlement envisaged therein."

If the British had been cooperative, would there have been this Arab intransigence? It stands to reason that between the two there is a connection. Yet the British now insist that in their judgment the authority of the United Nations rises superior to their obligations to the Arab countries.

No wonder that in these circumstances the British suggestion of a four-week armistice is suspect. Already the United Nations powers have had over six months in which to bring the parties together. The time has been wasted in flailing the air instead of getting down to the business of diplomacy, and in the process the U. N. powers have let the United Nations be kicked around by the Arabs. The diplomacy now invoked by Sir Alexander should have been forthcoming after the November 29 recommendations. A lot of blood has been shed since that time, but, more importantly, a fact has been born, namely, partition itself. The conciliatory nature of Arab language in rejecting the U. N.'s cease-fire order is evident only to the British. The Arabs want to turn the clock back, saying that all discussions must be based on "the nonrecognition of the existence of the State of Israel." It would only help to dig the grave of the United Nations if the British resolution for a four-week armistice were accepted without explicit or implicit assurance from the Arabs and the British that Israel is an accepted fact on the basis of the Assembly's recommendation.

Not Good Enough

Both Senator Taft and Senator Vandenberg are willing to eliminate from the House bill extending the reciprocal trade agreements an undesirable provision permitting Congress to veto any changes in duties not in conformity with the recommendations of the Tariff Commission. That is all to the good, so far as it goes. But it does not remove the chief objection to the House bill which stems from procedural changes involved in designating the Tariff Commission as the body responsible for making recommendations to the President.

Senator Taft not only approves these procedural changes; he would like to strengthen the position of the Tariff Commission by making its findings final and binding on the President. If that were done, elimination of the conditional veto power given to Congress by the House bill would follow automatically. But we venture to guess that the revised bill would be even less acceptable to the Administration than the House bill.

Senator Vandenberg, on the other hand, proposes to eliminate the veto clause while leaving the President free to reject the recommendations of the Tariff Commission, provided he publishes the recommendations and indicates the extent to which they have been breached. That is a concession that is of considerable importance. But it, too, leaves the Tariff Commission in a dominant position in the administrative setup. As the minority members of the Ways and Means Committee pointed out in their dissenting report on the House bill, "The full weight of all the pressures of special interests would be served by subjecting a single agency to the concentrated pressures which tariff lobbyists can exert."

Furthermore, the Tariff Commission is not at present equipped to undertake the tremendous burden of work entailed by the contemplated procedural changes. Evidence to that effect is supplied by Chairman Ryder in a letter to Congressman Doughton. He states that his staff is not adequate to discharge even the present duties of the commission. And under the House bill the commission would have to investigate and report to the President regarding the concessions that could be made without injuring domestic producers—and on each of the articles listed for inclusion in trade negotiations! In other words, it would have to hold hearings, study each item, weigh the evidence, and transmit its findings. Mr. Ryder concludes that with an adequate staff, on the basis of readily available information, the commission might complete hearings and make recommendations as to an average trade agreement within four to six months. Incidentally, under the House bill no member of the Tariff Commission could participate in the actual negotiation of agreements, as they have hitherto.

Worse still, Mr. Ryder believes that if the bipartisan Tariff Commission, consisting of three Democrats and three Republicans, were to divide 3 to 3 on any issue involving tariff changes, no concessions whatever could be made on the article in question. He also points out that the House bill would transform the commission into a policy-making agency instead of leaving it free to provide objective information on tariff matters for the benefit of Congress and the President. These are weighty objections to the House plan to make the Tariff Commission the pivotal agency of the reciprocal trade program. They are not removed by the limited concessions suggested by Senators Vandenberg and Taft. Again we urge the Senate to vote for a simple one-year extension, sans amendments.

Communist Stratagem

There is good reason to believe that the Communists want to see the Mundt-Nixon bill enacted into law. They have been pursuing precisely those tactics best calculated to bring about this result—extravagant overstatement and misstatement, fake telegrams, intemperate accusations designed to arouse the ire rather than the reason of legislators. They have jammed the Senate Judiciary Committee hearings with their rowdy and repellent partisans, have endeavored to crowd out more temperate and respectable opponents of the measure and have sought by every means to antagonize the members of the Senate who still have open minds on the subject. They appear to be in a fair way of creating the very hysteria of which passage of the measure would be a congressional expression.

Why do the Communists want the Mundt-Nixon bill to become law? The reasons are not obscure. This legislation would make them martyrs. It would afford fuel for Soviet propaganda that civil liberties are repressed in the United States, that political dissent is silenced by law. It would force decent liberal elements in the country into a kind of alliance with the Communists in defense of vital American principles. And it would give the Communists what they are already grasping—leadership in upholding the Bill of Rights. If, as this newspaper thinks likely, the measure should be found unconstitutional after enactment, the Communists would have won a tremendous political victory. We urge the Senate to beware of this Communist stratagem. We urge the men and women who genuinely believe in the free traditions of this society to take away from the Communists leadership in the fight for their preservation.

Squawking Voice

Outraged Senators have had an oratorical field day protesting the calumnies on their fair States perpetrated by privately contracted "Voice of America" broadcasts. There is no denying that the programs in question—beamed in Spanish to South America by the National Broadcasting Co.—were pretty bad. While a certain amount of introspective comment in such broadcasts may be defended as making the story more convincing, certainly it is poor propaganda to depict America as a nation composed only of hypocrites, bigots and Okies. Whether the type of material put out was deliberate sabotage or merely some juvenile script writer's idea of drama, it has done a distinct disservice to the country.

Perhaps the most damning commentary of all is the disclosure that the scripts were not even translated into English for advance checking. That is indeed a sorry advertisement for the responsibility of a large broadcasting network charged with one of the country's most important activities in foreign relations. Whatever its own administrative difficulties, the State Department, too, must come in for censure in not supervising the programs. Prudence would have called for careful enough scrutiny to enable the department to protest if arrangements with NBC were not working satisfactorily. The wonder, indeed, is that the State Department allowed NBC to continue in these circumstances.

Before Senators let their ire carry them too far, however, they ought to examine the record of the last session of Congress. Seventy per cent of the "Voice of America" broadcasts to foreign countries were farmed out to private broadcasters during fiscal 1948 at the specific mandate of Congress. Funds for personnel were deliberately limited to $687,000 so as to force the State Department to contract these broadcasts to private persons who supposedly could handle them "more effectively and efficiently." Time after time State Department officials protested this practice, maintaining that it did not allow proper foreign policy supervision. The timing of the present furor, when next year's broadcast budget is still before Congress, is scarcely accidental.

The thing for the Senators to do, if they are serious in not wanting America to be misrepresented, is to make sure that in the future the international broadcasting division has sufficient funds to do the kind of checking that is necessary. Right now the Senate can help by assuring prompt final passage of the 1949 foreign information appropriation, now in conference, which nearly doubles the amount of money available for the "Voice of America." The worst thing that could happen would be to allow anger over the present excrescences to blind Congress to the great need for a competent and expanded foreign broadcast program.

Action On DP's

The Senate's action Thursday on displaced persons was in conformity with one of the great traditions of American life. It accorded with the responsibilities of world leadership this country has assumed. In doubling the meager quota for admission of DP's set by the Wiley-Revercomb bill so that 200,000 may enter the United States during the next two years, the Senate took the indispensable first step toward final settlement of the DP problem and enabled this country to hold its head high in urging other nations to participate in such a settlement. Only when we have undertaken to do our fair share can we in good conscience demand the admission of European Jews to Palestine and the opening of gates elsewhere to other refugees.

It remains for the Senate to approve the bill as amended and for the House to take action on the companion Fellows bill. There is not much time left before adjournment; and time is of the essence both from the point of view of completing congressional business and from the point of view of the 850,000 men, women and children still, three years after the war's end, awaiting liberation in the DP camps of Europe. There is no business that more imperatively claims the attention of Congress than this humanitarian business of finding homes for the pitiful people persecuted by nazism, uprooted by the war and now unwilling to go back to lands where Communist tyranny prevails. Congress must not leave without action on their problem, which is inescapably the world's problem as well.

CHERRY TREE

From rain and sun
the miracle is done.
Out of the cold
where blind roots hold their chemistry's dark crumb,
the bloom has come,
the singing on the bough,
none knows how.

I who am bare of laughter, tears, or prayer, will touch the tree and so hold close to me the gown of one who heals what was ill done.

Tidelands Oil

Your editor's note appended to a communication on Tidelands Oil, in your issue of May 24, was a sufficient answer to your correspondent, but I would like to make a further comment.

It does not seem reasonable to me to argue that the rich oil deposits in the California tidelands should be quit-claimed by an act of Congress to the State of California, which had thought that it had title, until the Supreme Court held that the United States had paramount rights, merely because part of the City of San Francisco had been built on filled in tidelands. Neither is it in point that "Milwaukee and other cities of the Great Lakes have been granted . . . many hundreds of acres which have been developed . . ." Such questions, as well as those of inland waterways were not involved in the tidelands decision.

Those who have supported any of the bills now pending in the Congress to quit-claim to the States what the Supreme Court has held belongs to the United States are confusing, I believe deliberately, the minds of the people. The result would be, if this legislation should be adopted, to obtain property from the United States under false pretenses. If there is any doubt about the rights, interest or titles, in or to, inland waterways, why not ask for legislation strictly relating to these matters, without giving away oil worth billions of dollars. Such a proceeding would at least not raise any question of good faith.

The oil interests, with their bulging bankrolls and their lobbyists, teem within the Trojan horse labeled "State rights—inland waterways." Of course, there is no question that the oil companies that have made investments, some of them of considerable amounts, in the California tidelands, have equities, as I was one of the first to admit. But why does not some reasonable Federal official sit down with these oil companies and try to work out a just settlement, considering all of the facts, and all of the equities.

Apparently, the oil interests prefer to take their chances on legislation that would be grossly unfair to the taxpayers in those States that do not have rich oil deposits in their tidelands, to say nothing of those who do not even have tidelands. Apparently, also, the Government officials who ought to be interested are listless and indifferent. President Truman himself might take cognizance of this situation and direct his appropriate subordinates in his administration to call in representatives of the oil companies affected, with a view to working out a solution if possible. Certainly, conferences held in good faith could not possibly do any harm.

Welfare Funds

I experienced a great deal of concern, in view of statements made at the hearings of the Senate Subcommittee on District of Columbia Appropriations on May 21, as to whether legitimate financial need in our city could be met on the proposed appropriation for 1949 to the Board of Public Welfare. The House Subcommittee cut $198,500 in public assistance grants from the so-called President's budget which had already cut from the board's own original estimate of need. Public assistance covers such types of need as aid to dependent children, aid to the blind, old age assistance, and general public assistance given to families where there is illness or some other disaster.

There are now many known cases of legitimate need which in other cities would have been handled by the public department, but which cannot be handled here due to lack of funds. These people have had to go to private Chest-supported agencies which were able to help less than they would have wished as their funds are mostly used on their regular job of preventing family breakdown before it has occurred.

In my opinion allowing hundreds of such families to remain unaided is bad business as well as bad citizenship. The cost to the District will be higher in the end.

Watergate Direction

In your issue of May 21, the following statement was made: "Howard Mitchell, associate conductor of the National Symphony Orchestra, will be musical director for the series in the absence of Dr. Hans Kindler, who will leave June 11 for a tour of Latin-American capitals as a guest conductor."

Dr. Kindler has requested me to point out that for the past five years he has not acted as musical director of the summer Watergate concerts, but has only agreed to appear upon occasion as conductor.

Chinese Names

Just a word about foreign names. The new President of the Executive Yuan of China, you designated as "Premier," is called Mr. Wong (family name) Wen-hao (given names). The given names are inseparable. It would be just as funny to call him Mr. Wong Wen as you would Mr. Marshall Ge. or Mr. Truman Har. A little attention on such trifles could help to indicate that the people in this country are really anxious to understand some of the problems of other parts of the world.

Apprenticeship Program

The explanation appearing under a photograph of the officials of the Montgomery County Apprenticeship Committee of the Home Builders Association of Metropolitan Washington in your issue of May 23 indicated that an apprentice-training school for bricklayers and plasterers was being established in Bethesda, Md.

This is incorrect. What has been established is an apprenticeship program meeting minimum standards of the Bureau of Apprenticeship, United States Department of Labor.

One of the eight basic standards of such apprenticeship programs is the requirement of a minimum of 144 hours per year of technical and theoretical instruction related to the trade.

This is, of course, an important factor in the proper training of apprentices. However, other standards require that the apprentice learn the trade on the job for eight hours a day under close supervision of qualified journeymen. This on-the-job training follows an outline of basic skills and work processes agreed to by the Montgomery County Apprenticeship Committee. Also agreed upon is a progressive scale of wages covering the entire three-year period of apprenticeship.

The classes being established for related instruction are but a small part of the total apprenticeship program. The apprentice will spend some 40 hours per week learning the actual skills and processes of the trade on the job, and will devote approximately four hours a week to its theoretical requirements.

Palestine Federation

Notwithstanding the recent belligerent utterances of King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan, there is ample basis for believing that he is the most reasonable, and most practical minded of all the heads of the Arab states. His is the least modernized and most sparsely populated country in the Arab world. Historically, Trans-Jordan constituted an integral part of Palestine, and it is immediately adjacent thereto. It is widely known that he is at loggerheads with some of the states included in the Arab League, and that he has personal ambitions to extend his rule over Syria and Lebanon with a view of establishing a greater Syria under his domain.

Under these circumstances, and owing to the proximity of Trans-Jordan to the Arab populated part of Palestine, it is entirely practical that Trans-Jordan should take over that part of Palestine not included within the Jewish state under the provisions of the N. N. partition resolution of Nov. 29, 1947. The Jewish state could thereupon acknowledge the sovereignty of Trans-Jordan over its augmented territory in exchange for the recognition by Trans-Jordan of the independence of the Jewish state. These states might enter into a treaty of federation providing for the following:

1. King Abdullah is to be the titular head of the kingdom of Trans-Jordan and of the Jewish state, which would assume a status comparable to that of a dominion.

2. King Abdullah would delegate a viceroy or high commissioner as his representative to the Jewish state.

3. This delegate would perform the functions and exercise the powers as are performed and possessed by the representatives of the British crown in the several dominions of the British Empire.

4. Except as otherwise expressly stipulated, all the residue of governmental power and authority of the Jewish state, specifically including, but not limited to, the authority to regulate immigration and colonization, would be reserved to the Jewish government within its political boundaries.

5. Free access to and the use of transportation facilities within the Jewish state, including ports, railways and highways, would be guaranteed to the citizens of Trans-Jordan on a nondiscriminatory basis subject only to such restrictions, conditions and terms, as were applicable to the citizens of the Jewish state. Trans-Jordan would guarantee the same rights to the citizens of the Jewish state.

6. All net revenues resulting from the operation of these facilities would be apportioned and distributed among the federated governments in accordance with a formula based upon the proportion of revenue attributable to each.

7. A joint board of trade would be formed for the full and economical development of power and irrigation projects and similar enterprises which may be of common interest to both governments.

8. A system of federal courts would be established. These courts would be of mixed personnel, and shall be vested with exclusive jurisdiction in all disputes of a civil nature in which the parties were of diverse citizenship, and in all disputes between a citizen of one state and the government or political subdivision of the other.

Aside from the political necessity of such a federation, a plan along the lines previously indicated would result in great and mutual benefit to the Jewish state and to its neighbor to the east. Such a plan, if adopted and implemented, would offer concrete proof of the desire on the part of the Jews for friendship and cooperation with the Arab world. It would explode the fears of domination which some Arab propagandists are vociferously claiming is the objective of the Jewish state. It would create a foundation for far-reaching economic collaboration to the mutual advantage of the Jews and the Arabs.

While the adoption of a plan like this would entail a concession to the pride and dignity of the Arab world, it would not diminish Jewish sovereignty in any real sense. The Jewish state would still continue to be as fully sovereign and independent as Australia or Canada within the framework of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Disillusioned Younger Set

By Malvina Lindsay

Fifth-Wheel Youth

TEEN-AGERS have been running amuck in many parts of the country, and this has resulted in widespread finger pointing at working mothers. Since many married women, plagued by inflated costs of living, have been going back to work—women account for most of the recent increase in the labor force—what is more natural than to connect this happening with the wave of juvenile escapades?

Yet the answer to teen-age outbreaks isn't that pat. Many of the adolescents who have recently gotten attention by weird secret society initiations, by attacks on homes or persons of school teachers, or by getting themselves arrested for odd crimes, were not of the obviously neglected class. Nor can teen-age drinking, which recently came up for discussion at the Portland meeting of the General Federation of Women Clubs, be pinned wholly on any one villain.

In San Diego, Calif., the high school students who circumvented a State law by organizing fraternities and sororities off campus and staging such initiation stunts as public fights between girls, kissing sailors, and stealing billiard balls, were not of the type of juvenile delinquent that is "on the town."

But in some places the gang spirit, even among school children, has taken more violent form. And arrests of youths 18 to 20 years of age materially increased in 1947 over 1946. Meanwhile the teen-age problem is being brought home to communities by the program of the National Conference on Prevention and Control of Juvenile Delinquency, especially through a film, Report for Action, which the Theater Owners of America have produced and are distributing.

PART OF the trouble goes back to the wartime tendency of teen-agers to quit school for work. This has continued, and now about 15 per cent of the population 14 to 15 years old is estimated to be working or hunting jobs. Since postwar jobs for teen-agers have become scarcer, there has developed a large floating group of young people drifting from one dead-end job to another. Part of this group has become loafers. Many of its members are confused and resentful because the easy money opportunities of the past are no more.

Nor can youngsters coming on look to a labor market in which they can have things their own way. Employers now are in a position to demand training or experience—likewise industry and responsibility—when they pay good wages. In vacation, many a teen-ager is forced back to lawn mowing, soda squirting and baby sitting.

This creates restlessness and frustration among the teen-age set all down the line from those who quit school to make big money and didn't find it to the younger ones who see no immediate profitable job prospects, but rather a sweating it out through more study and training. Teen-agers in short aren't getting the economic attention and respect they did a few years ago, and recent outbreaks by some of them might be attention-getting devices.

SOMETHING of this sort took place after the First World War when returning veterans and an early depression crowded the younger set out of the picture. This together with a general mood of disillusionment about the war and life in general helped develop the self-pitying lost generation of the 1920's.

In the present postwar period boys and girls see a more hopeful economic picture in the distance—though not at hand. But they also sense the overhanging threat of possible endless war or threats of war, and the general insecurity of humanity.

In addition, the younger young generation has been caught in the backwash of the last war—the crowded housing, the family doubling up, the moving from place to place, the pinch of living cost, and the lack of spending money. Much of it has had a comedown in comforts, a curtailment in desires, and can't understand why. And in some cases its members have been left on their own as mothers have left home for factory or store—often so their children could remain in high school.

The biggest trouble of the adolescent generation is that it lacks parents, teachers, religious and community leaders who are informed and proficient in their callings, and who are wise, strong and resourceful enough to divert teen-agers' energies away from the beckoning lost generation trail. How to find or develop such urgently needed elders as quickly as possible is the question of the hour. Answering it lies largely with communities in what they do to expand and make vital their youth programs, and their facilities for parent education.

Family Loyalty

In The Washington Post as of May 24 there is a news item about the attitude of Dr. A. Powell Davies, Washington Unitarian minister, toward dismissal of persons from Government service who have relatives working for the Communist Party. He accuses Representative Crawford of "public blundering" and calls the dismissal cruel.

It does seem cruel, but blood is thicker than water and it is really impossible to turn against your own. In the final analysis a person would go to the rescue of his own, and the higher the type of person the more likely he would be to do this. Such a person would be vulnerable to pressure brought to bear by an unfriendly operator who would not hesitate to use this means of attaining an end.

Tidelands Oil

A Communication

In your Editor's Note appended to my communication on "Tidelands Oil" printed in The Washington Post of May 24 you say: "The Department of Justice has not challenged and the Supreme Court has in no way altered the dictum that 'title in the soil of th sea, or arms of the sea, below ordinary high-water mark is vested in the several States.'"

In answer I quote from the decision of Justice Black writing for the majority: "The complaint alleges that the United States is the owner in fee simple of, or possessed of paramount rights in and powers over, the lands, minerals and other things of value underlying the Pacific Ocean, lying seaward of the low-water mark on the coast of California and outside of the inland waters of the State, extending seaward three nautical miles," etc.

Surely this does constitute a challenge by the Department of Justice of the title of the State since the United States cannot be the "owner in fee simple" if the "title" of California is unchallenged. Moreover, the court held in so many words that "California is not the owner of the 3-mile marginal belt along its coast, and that the Federal Government rather than the State has paramount rights in and power over that belt, an incident to which is full dominion over the resources of the soil under that water area, including oil."

It would seem obvious, therefore, that you are in error in asserting that "title to the tidelands was not called into question by the court's recent decision."

ADMITTEDLY, there is more room for argument concerning your assertion that "title to inland waters," or to the lands underlying them, was not called into question by the decision. But even on this point the court does not give an unequivocal answer. For in one place the opinion states: "The belief that local interests are so predominant as constitutionally to require State dominion over lands under its land-locked navigable waters finds some argument for its support."

At another point the opinion states: "If this rationale of the Pollard case is a valid basis for a conclusion that paramount rights run to the States in inland waters to the seaward of the low-water mark, the same rationale leads to the conclusion that national interests and responsibilities, and therefore national rights are paramount in waters lying to the seaward in the 3-mile belt."

Justice Black's opinion uses even more significant language bearing on this point, as follows: "As previously stated, this court has followed and reasserted the basic doctrine of the Pollard case many times. And in doing so the court then believed that States not only owned tidelands and soil under navigable waters within their territorial jurisdiction whether inland or not."

THE COURT having repudiated the doctrine of the Pollard case in respect of State title to the tidelands, is it to be regarded as certain that in a case directly involving the question of State title to the soil under navigable inland waters, the court might not likewise divest the States of title thereto? As long as the opinion leaves this question in doubt, are the attorneys general and Governors of the several States who are appealing to Congress for corrective legislation to be accused of conjuring up "bugbears to frighten the credulous?"

As stated by Justice Reed in his dissent:

"If the original States did claim, as I think they did, sovereignty and ownership to the 3-mile limit, California has the same rights in the lands bordering its littoral . . . This ownership in California would not interfere in any way with the needs or rights of the United States in war or peace. The power of the United States is plenary over these undersea lands precisely as it is over every river, farm, mine, and factory of the Nation."

The language of Justice Frankfurter's dissent is also pertinent:

". . . Of course the United States has 'paramount rights' in the sea-belt of California—the rights that are implied by the power to regulate interstate and foreign commerce, the power of condemnation, the treaty-making power, the war power. We have not now before us the validity of the exercise of any of these paramount rights. Rights of ownership are here asserted—and rights of ownership are something else.

"Ownership implies acquisition in the various ways in which land is acquired—by conquest, by discovery and claim, by cession, by purchase, by condemnation. When and how did the United States acquire this land? . . . It is beside the point to say that 'if wars come, they must be fought by the Nation.'"

Stassen Cites Finland Acts To Curb Reds

Decatur, Ill., May 28 (AP).—Harold E. Stassen said today current events in Finland reemphasize "the importance of new, strong measures by the free countries to stop Communist infiltration."

Stassen addressed a luncheon sponsored by the Decatur Junior Chamber of Commerce. It was for "second choice" support of the State's Republican delegation at the national convention.

His other appearances were at Champaign and Peoria.

Cites "No Confidence" Vote

Stassen said the Finnish Parliament had voted "no confidence" in the Communist Minister of the Interior.

"Through the Communist leadership which had worked its way into the labor unions of Finland, strikes were called which forced the government to reverse its decision on clearing up its own cabinet," he said.

He added that "these fifth column activities, which are so obviously directed from Moscow, must be ruled illegal." Present United States laws, he added, are out of date. They have not kept up with the postwar methods of these Communist underground tactics."

In seeking "second choice" support of the Illinois delegation to Philadelphia, Stassen has carefully respected Gov. Dwight H. Green's "favorite son" position among the State's delegation and Republican leaders. In his sole mention of Green in his speech, he said he was glad to be in a State "so ably presided over by your outstanding Gov. Dwight H. Green."

Takes Plane From Newark

Stassen flew here from Newark. He made a brief appearance before the Decatur High School student body, which nominated him Republican President candidate in a mock convention April 13.

He said he was "happy to accept," he added:

"Of course, as you know, I hope I may receive a similar nomination, with the 'mock' taken out, at the Republican Convention in Philadelphia."

War Tablets Are Dedicated At McKinley

Two marble tablets inscribed with the names of 183 McKinley High School students who died in World War II were dedicated yesterday.

In addition to the faculty and student body, more than 300 parents and relatives of the men whose names are inscribed in gold letters on the 5-foot-high tablets participated in the dedication ceremony in the school auditorium.

Rear Admiral William N. Thomas, chief of Navy chaplains, told them that "men who make the supreme sacrifice of their lives for a worthy cause never die. They live on in the hearts of those they left behind."

Rabbi Norman Gerstenfeld gave the invocation and the Rev. Louis F. Miltenberger the benediction. Harlan Randall of McKinley's class of '18 sang, and Melvin Harris, president of the student council, led the salute to the flag.

In addition to the men whose names are inscribed on the tablets, the names of the more than 3000 McKinley students who served in the war are being entered in a memorial book.

Annapolis, Md., May 28 (AP).—President Truman, in his first visit to the Naval Academy since 1946, will witness a Navy sports program here Saturday that signals the start of June Week.

From the presidential yacht Williamsburg, he will see a twice-beaten Navy crew take on undefeated Cornell in a mile-and-three quarters race down the Severn River tomorrow morning.

The President will be in the stands at Lawrence Field in the afternoon to witness the renewal of Army-Navy rivalry in baseball.

A full round of dances, parades and receptions will follow through next week, building up to graduation day on June 4, when the ninetieth class of about 410 first-classmen will become naval and marine officers.

A 21-gun salute will be fired from the Stribling Walk battery at 8 a. m. (EDT) Saturday when the Williamsburg anchors in the Severn after an overnight trip from Washington.

Boarding the yacht will be Gov. William Preston Lane, jr., Navy Secretary James L. Sullivan, Admiral L. E. Denfield, chief of naval operations, and Rear Admiral James L. Holloway, jr., academy superintendent. The Williamsburg will proceed up river for the crew rates (at 10 a. m.).

After lunch aboard the yacht, the President's party will come ashore with full honors by a marine guard and academy band.

President Truman will be among a capacity crowd seeing pitchers Ronnie Burton of Navy and Roger Conover of Army wind up their academy baseball careers (at 1:30 p. m.). The cadets have won 23 games in the traditional series, the midshipmen 17.

Admiral Holloway will give a reception for the President at his quarters before the Williamsburg leaves for Washington late tomorrow afternoon (about 5:30 p. m.).

"Sob Sunday," so named from the days when plebes shed crocodile tears over the impending departure of first-classmen, the ring dance at which class rings are worn for the first time and other social events follow in the next five days.

Proudest of all feminine participants in Annapolis will be Mrs. Katherine Wainwright Austin of North Andover, Mass. The 26-year-old mother and war widow will be toast of the Navy as the 40th color girl to reign at the academy during June week.

To the cheers of the Midshipman brigade, Mrs. Austin will transfer the American and brigade flags to Midshipman Frederick L. Nelson of Petersburg, Alaska, in the presentation of the colors on June 3.

Navy Secretary Sullivan will deliver the commencement address in Dahlgren Hall.

About 332 graduates will be commissioned as ensigns of the line, 39 as ensigns in the supply corps, 12 as ensigns in the Navy civil engineers and 27 as Marine second lieutenants.

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Seeds Of The Southern Revolt

ON EVERY political front, in Congress and out, the issue finally gets down to how power is to be exercised under the American form of government. We are facing the fact that, with responsibility divided between the States and the Federal Government, there are gaping holes in which no authority can function.

Childs

The absence of any government—anarchy—may be in theory a highly desirable condition.

What is more, change will come in the yeasty time in which we are living. It will come through the processes of democracy, or it will come in ways that can only be harmful and destructive to what we cherish most.

These thoughts are stirred by an editorial in the Mobile, Ala., Press. The editorial agrees that there is a threat to freedom in recent proposals to curb information and thought. True, says the editorial, this is the "shadow of the police state."

But it goes on to say that President Truman's civil rights program is likewise the shadow of a coercive state. The language used is strong:

"One particularly alarming measure indorsed by the President is the FEPC bill. That shadow of the police state grows even darker when one studies carefully this measure, which would create a dictatorial agency that could destroy the constitutional rights of citizens. This bureaucratic agency could tell an employer whom he could hire or not hire. It could dictate to unions as to membership, forcing them to admit persons they did not want.

"The FEPC measure would set up an army of spies traveling throughout the United States. Operatives of this Gestapo-like agency would have the power to act as complainant, prosecutor, judge and jury. The FEPC is a step toward the destruction of free enterprise."

POLITICAL demagogy and expediency to one side, here is the root of the Southern revolt against the Truman proposals. It is in the profound fear of coercion—of having an alien way of life imposed by force which would shatter a pattern cherished with blood and tears.

This feeling is deep and real and it cannot be brushed aside as mere rhetoric. If any proof were needed, it is in the reaction of Southern liberals such as Hodding Carter of Greenville, Miss., who have considered themselves New Dealers. They cannot accept the imposition of the civil rights program by the Federal Government.

Visiting the South even briefly, you realize that Southerners are acutely aware of what the rest of the country may be thinking. They want to believe that their way of life is good, is workable and is capable of change. What is more, they want the visitor to believe it. They tell him of changes—of how Negro members of Northern football teams came to the South and played with their teams against the all-white teams of the South.

TO THE Northerner, who brings his own prejudices with him, these changes are likely to seem very small gains indeed. He may argue that, if progress in granting equal opportunity is to be so slow, then the rest of the country will begin to believe the President's program may be necessary.

Here, in my opinion, is the weakness of the South's position. Granted that their problem is of a kind and a magnitude which the Northerner cannot comprehend. Granted that their fear of coercion and the police state comes out of a belief in freedom and in the rights of the individual that is perhaps deeper than in any other part of the country.

Yet the fact remains that the South has not used the powers of the States to channel the process of change. Consider what might have been the reaction to the President's proposals. Instead of political conventions devoted to ways and means of resisting Mr. Truman personally, the South might have held a convention to study how opportunity might be equaled within the framework of States' rights and the pattern of Southern conduct. Such a meeting would have made a deep impression on the country.

Two facts tend to becloud the passionate belief of the honest Southerner in freedom and in the rights of the separate States and the individual man. One is that some Southern interests seem determined to keep a lower wage differential based mainly on the Negro for economic gain.

The other and more damaging fact is that so many Southern representatives in Congress seem always ready to vote for the measures that repress and coerce those whom they do not like. You cannot claim rights and freedoms for yourself that you constantly seek to deny to others.

THE LUSTRON HOME
A NEW STANDARD FOR LIVING

Now ready for your inspection at New Hampshire and E Street, N.W.

This is your invitation to inspect the first new Lustron Home in this community.

We are holding Open House every day in the brand-new home, and we are prepared to show you its strength, conveniences, comfort, and to answer your questions about it.

Designed for Modern Living

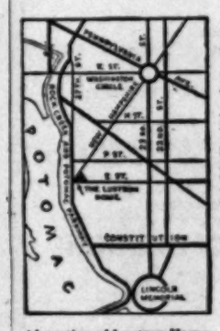
Living in the Lustron Home is modern living, designed expressly to meet the needs of the modern American family.

You get five spacious rooms, plus a large utility room—more than 1,000 square feet of floor space.

Porcelain enameled steel construction means not only savings from straight-line volume production, but also easy, economical maintenance, permanence, practically no depreciation.

Safety, Convenience Features

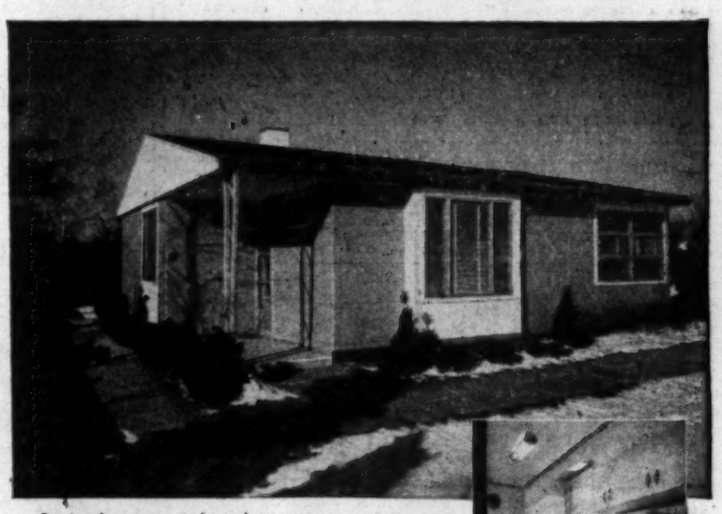
The Lustron Home is completely fireproof, decay-proof. Your only cleaning materials are soap, water, and a damp cloth. Radiant panel heating eliminates radiators and grilles. You have your choice of beautiful color combinations, exterior and interior, chosen by leading decorators and color experts.



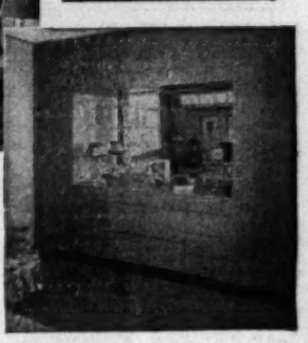
▲Location of Lustron Home

Don't put off seeing this new contribution to the art of living. Visit the new Lustron Home at New Hampshire Avenue and E Street, N. W., on Rock Creek and Potomac Parkway, overlooking the Potomac.

OPENING DATE TODAY MAY 29, 1948



Ranch-style, conservatively modern architecture distinguishes the Lustron Home. Porcelain enameled steel never needs repainting, redecorating, reroofing.



Three rooms from the Lustron Home. Spacious living room has big picture window, built-in bookshelves. Master bedroom is ample for twin beds; built-in features (dressing table, drawers, shelves and closets) cover entire wall. Kitchen includes cabinets, exhaust fan, combination dishwasher-clotheswasher; you need furnish only stove and refrigerator of your own choice, and, of course, your own furnishings.

Israel Place Names, Famed In Bible, Make News Again

Many of the places now making headlines in the warfare in Israel have a familiar ring because of their prominence in religious history.

Some of these date from Old Testament times, others achieved their fame in the days of the New Testament, or even during the Crusades.

To help the reader identify them, a few of the spots now in news dispatches are here presented in glossary form.

Acre—City in the north of Palestine which was won by Richard I of England (the "Lion Hearted") and Philip II of France, during the Crusades and given to the Knights of St. John in 1911.

Amman—Capital of Trans-Jordan; once the chief and holy place of the Ammonites, sons of Lot's son, Ben Ammi.

Beersheba—Connected with the lives of Abraham, Hagar, Isaac, and Elijah. It is one of the most southerly towns in Palestine, therefore the expression "Dan to Beersheba" means all of the country.

Beisan—Ancient fortress; Biblical town of Beth-shaer.

Bethlehem—Birthplace of Jesus; scene of the Old Testament Book of Ruth, and David's home.

Damascus—Briefly held by King David, this ancient commercial center is believed to be the oldest existing city in the world. Paul was converted on the road to Damascus.

Galilee—Chief scene of the ministrations of Jesus. The Sea of Galilee is a fresh water lake through which the River Jordan runs; the Diciples were fishermen on the Sea of Galilee.

Gaza—The commercial meeting place of caravans from Egypt to Syria; one of the chief cities of the Philistines.

Hebron—Site of Abraham's Tomb; Joshua overcame the city and allotted it to Caleb. David reigned in Hebron, which was also the scene of Absalom's birth and rebellion. Judas Maccabeus later wrested it from the Edomites.

Jordan River—The largest river in Palestine and the eastern boundary of the Holy Land. It was the scene of the baptism of Jesus.

Jericho—Tradition has it that this city was captured from the Canaanites by the armies of Joshua after seven priests blew their trumpets seven times and the walls came tumbling down.

Jerusalem—City sacred to Jews, Christian and Arabs. King David made it his capital, and brought the Ark there. In it Solomon built his temple and surrounded the city with a wall. Jesus triumphantly entered the city at the passover and was crucified a week later outside Jerusalem.

Captured by the Crusaders in 1099, it was taken by Saladin in 1187 and remained in Moslem hands until 1918. Within the old, walled city, are the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, sacred to Christians; the Wailing Wall, a part of the wall of Solomon's Temple, sacred to the Jews, and the Mosque of Omar of the Arabs.

Nazareth—Revered because of its association with the early life of Jesus. It contains a church built on the traditional site of the annunciation to Mary, and a spring called the "Fountain of the Virgin."

Tyre—Chief city of the Phoenician Civilization; later captured by the Assyrians and Chaledeans. Mentioned in the Bible as an ally of Israel and later as an example of passing glory.

Rev. Gilliss Speaks Over WOL Today

The Rev. Mr. Gilliss served for four years as an Army chaplain and spent 16 months in the European Theater of Operations. One of his main duties was visiting troops in gun positions.

New Pastor's Topic

The Rev. James D. Foy, new pastor of Mount Zion Methodist Church, 2902 O st. nw., will speak on "Go Ye and Preach," at 11 a. m. Sunday. He was formerly pastor of Buena Vista Street Church, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Northerners Favor Presbyterian Union

Seattle, May 28 (AP).—The 160th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the USA today passed a motion favoring action toward the unification with the Southern branch of the church, known as the Presbyterian Church in the United States.

In line with the wishes of the South, no formal vote is to be taken at this assembly on the reunion of the two branches, but the commissioners adopted a motion for their department of church cooperation and union to take these steps:

Continue to work toward such reunion; bring the plan to completion as soon as possible; recommend definite action at the next General Assembly, and arrange for an interchange of ministers and members of the two groups this year.

Dr. William Barrow Pugh, stated clerk and member of the joint drafting committee, explained the committees of both North and South are agreed on a plan with the exception of a few minor details.

The Rev. Dr. Jessey Hayes Baird, elected moderator at the opening session yesterday, presided today.

Crime in South Appalls Presbyterian Group

Atlanta, May 27 (AP).—The Presbyterian Church's executive committee of home missions called the crime situation in the South appalling today.

The committee reporting to the eighty-eighth General Assembly cited FBI records showing 12 States had a murder rate twice that of the Nation and that only one of these States was outside the area of the Southern church.

Nine States, all in the South, had aggravated assault rates that were double the national rates.

The report presented by the Rev. Claud Pritchard of Atlanta, secretary of home missions, said there were 150 communities in the South and Southwest where new churches could be established.

The assembly referred to committee a number of overtures favoring and opposing union of Northern and Southern Presbyterian churches.

Dr. C. Darby Fulton of Nashville, Tenn., newly elected moderator, told the assembly today every mission field in the world is a wide-open opportunity for the church.

New Statue At Missionhurst

TO BE CONSECRATED—Statue of Our Lady of Fatima

A crypt dedicated to Our Lady of Fatima will be consecrated at 11 a. m. Thursday at Missionhurst, 4651 North 25th st., Arlington.

The Most Rev. Peter L. Ireton, Bishop of Richmond, will preside. Missionhurst is the American Central House of Immaculate Heart Missions.

Our Lady of Fatima first appeared to three shepherd children on May 13, 1917, at Fatima, Portugal, according to the story. Later she appeared and prophesied the end of the war then in progress, but said another and more terrible war would follow unless men ceased to offend the Lord.

She also told the children that if her requests were granted, Russia would be converted and peace would reign. When she appeared on October 13, she again called upon the faithful to mend their lives and then performed a major miracle which was seen by more than 70,000 persons.

The crypt has been constructed by the Immaculate Heart Missions and a statue of Our Lady, modeled after the original statue at Fatima, has been prepared for it by the Missions.

After the opening, masses will be said at the crypt on Sundays and at 9:30 a. m. on the 13th of each month, the day of the appearances.

Maryland Assembly's Results Mark Administration Triumph

Annapolis, Md., May 28 (AP).—Most people who work for the State of Maryland got a pay raise, Governor Lane had his way with public welfare and the Tidewater Fisheries Commission is going to get an official inquiry.

These were marked down as the major achievements of Maryland's General Assembly in a three-day extraordinary session that wound up late last night.

It was a session reasonably free of wrangling. The legislators for the most part worked with dispatch and only a few times did the administration have to bear down to get its program through without a concession.

Governor Lane summoned the Assembly primarily to appropriate $2,101,654 to give about 7000 State employes a 10-per-cent cost-of-living raise. Except for a weak and futile gesture in the House to make it apply to bypassed State policemen and mental hospital workers, the bill went through expeditiously.

Trouble Encountered

The administration did encounter some trouble in its determination to give the Welfare Department an extra $500,000—and no more. The department asked for an additional $2,650,757.

An attempt was made in the Senate to hike the amount to $1,325,378.50. The administration turned on the heat and the Senate by a 19-9 vote defeated the increase proposal and restored the $500,000 figure. That ended that squabble and the original administration request breezed through the House.

Another administration welfare proposal, to create a 15-man investigating commission of the department, had even easier sailing. It went through both branches without a flutter.

Governor Lane indicated he expects the commission to come up with an answer to the recurring problem of appropriating extra welfare money after adoption of the budget.

The internal troubles of the Fisheries Commission, expected to hang up the session interminably, produced steam in the Senate only. The widely predicted legislative action on the commisison's wrangle took the form of a Senate resolution to name a nine-man investigating commission.

Charge Ripper Bill Aim

Opponents, particularly Senators Hoff (D., Carroll) and Stromberg (D., Howard), charged the resolution was a budding ripper bill that would bloom at the next regular session.

Reported strongly to be another administration measure, the resolution brought from its backers the claim it was high time the facts of the tidewater troubles were brought out—and corrected. When the Senators were counted, there were 18 for and 10 against the resolution, which they rode through the House without a hitch.

That about wound up the major legislative objectives a couple of hours after the final night session began. The remaining hours before adjournment were consumed in straightening out amendments to local bills.

Ine of these which provoked some heat was a bill to allow Calvert County to provide public transportation for parochial as well as public school children. The House had it bottled up in committee after Senate passage and when it finally was forced out it was amended to put the question up for a special election before it was passed.

Local gambling bills played a prominent role now and then during the session. The results were to give the voters of Calvert, Anne Arundel and Howard Counties an opportunity to ballot on whether they want certain types of gambling.

Red Probe Authorized

Anne Arundel will decide on benefit raffles, Calvert on slot machines and Howard County on raffles and bingo.

Included among the commissions authorized was one to make a study of subversive activities, in particular "Communist fronts."

The sales tax question, usually good for an argument ever since its adoption, came up only briefly. A bill to end collections after they reached the estimated 36 million dollars got quick throttling in the House.

In all, about 90 bills and resolutions were passed in the State's third special session in as many years.

9 Montgomery County Bills Await Signature

Annapolis, Md., May 28 (Spl.).—Montgomery County today had nine legislative bills awaiting Governor Lane's approval, while its neighbor, Prince Georges County was represented by two others.

The measures were passed by both bodies of the State Legislature, which adjourned last night after a speedy clean-up of three nights and two days of special Assembly.

Two of the Montgomery County bills were designed to speed work and aid financing of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission. They were also sponsored by the Prince Georges delegation.

Measure on Plumbing

One would empower any master plumber registered with the commission to make house sewer and water connections with permission of the commission. The other more liberally defined indebtedness limitations of the commission to enable it to issue some 10 million dollars worth of bonds.

A third measure sought by the Montgomery County Commissioners would authorize the county public utility agent to enforce taxicab ordinances at the direction of county commissioners.

Another Measure Involved

Give the Rockville Mayor and Council power to authorize street improvements on petitions signed by 20 per cent of the property owners of land abutting the proposed improvements.

Still other bills would increase salaries of Montgomery Board of Election Supervisors; give the county commissioners authority to fix the salary of the county comptroller; permit similar action regarding salaries of assistant clerks to the county commissioners; increase the salaries of Montgomery County Circuit Court judges from $10,000 to $12,500 a year each, and increase the salaries of the supervisor of assessments and county assessors.

Applies To Other Judges

The last-named measure also applies to such judges serving in Frederick County and in four Eastern Shore Circuit Courts.

Prince Georges County awaits the Governor's signature on bills that would:

Fix the amount of taxes on new construction in Prince Georges County.

Authorize Prince Georges County Commissioners to license and regulate operations of trailer camps within the county.

Cramer Named New President Of Bond Club

By S. Oliver Goodman

G. Fenton Cramer, partner in Ferris & Co., was elected president of the Bond Club of Washington at the annual field day yesterday at the Manor Club. Cramer succeeded Harvey B. Gram, jr., of Johnston, Lemon & Co.

Cramer

Other newly elected officers were William C. Coe of Mackall & Coe, vice president; Austin Rohrbaugh of Robinson, Rohrbaugh & Lukens, secretary-treasurer. Elected to the board of governors were Edgar B. Rouse of Robert C. Jones & Co., and Millard F. West of Auchincloss, Parker & Redpath. West served as this year's general outing chairman.

Cramer, the new president, is a native of Gaithersburg, Md., and graduate of Strayers Business College. He entered the investment business in 1926, served in the Army Air Corps as a lieutenant colonel from 1942 to 1946 and joined the Ferris firm in 1946. He is a member of the Washington Stock Exchange and an allied member of the New York Stock Exchange.

More than 275 local investment dealers and their guests shared in the day's fun, which included mock stock exchange trade for prizes, golfing contests, a horseshoe tournament and a dinner.

IMPROVEMENT: Capital Transit Co. yesterday reported sharp improvement in net earnings for April and the first four months of this year. April net was $134,119, a gain of $94,522 over the same 1947 month. Net for first four months totaled $246,251, compared with a deficit of $140,254 in the like period last year. Operating revenues of $9,025,392 for the four-month period were up 5.5 per cent, while expenses of $7,095,708 showed a 0.9 per cent drop. Economy efforts were reflected by a 13.4 per cent reduction in car miles operated in four months, while bus miles were slashed 8.8 per cent in the same period.

ODD LOTS: New equipment costing $115,000 has been authorized for WTTG, Washington outlet of the DuMont Television network. . . . Orvis Bros. & Co has issued a special analysis of Burlington Mills Corp. . . . Plans to merge the two investment company subsidiaries of Central States Electric Corp. have been announced by the trustees. . . . Losses from fires in 1947 were a record $692,635,000, but a new record is anticipated in 1948, the National Board of Underwriters said. . . . Factory sales of motor vehicles for the first four months this year totaled 1,718,737 units, against 1,585,635 in the same 1947 period, according to Automobile Manufacturers Association. . . . Wilson P. Graham, Washington salesman for Lincoln National Life, has qualified for the 1948 Million-Dollar Roundtable of the National Association of Life Underwriters.

PLEA: With sales of Series F and G bonds lagging in the current security loan campaign here, a plea was voiced yesterday for organizations to reexamine their finances in search of extra funds for investment, Chairman Thomas J. Groom of the District Savings Bond Committee, in voicing the plea, reported that F and G sales through May 22 were only 32 per cent of their $8,320,000 quota. Series E sales had reached $6,202,096 or 44 per cent of their $14,180,000. Total District Security Loan sales proceeded through May 22 were $8,853,705, or 39.4 per cent of the $22,500,000 quota.

BENEFITS: Washington life insurance policyholders and beneficiaries were paid $32,800,000 in 1947, according to a special compilation by the National Underwriter, weekly insurance newspaper. The District of Columbia ranked twenty-sixth in life insurance payments among all the States, the study showed. Maryland received $60,100,000, while Virginia's payments totaled $51,800,000.

STORE SALES: Washington department store sales in the week ended May 22 were unchanged from the same 1947 period, while the Fifth Reserve District as a whole showed a 2 per cent decline. For the four weeks ended May 22, local store sales were up 2 per cent and the Fifth District showed a similar percentage gain. The figures were reported last night to the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond

One on the Aisle—

Gosh, But This Errol's a Wiz!

By Richard L. Coe

WHAT THIS COUNTRY needs is Errol Flynn. If the reluctant General Eisenhower can have his Prophet Pearson, why can't flashing Flynn have his Courier Coe?

Gad, what a man. Errol could handle all the uncles from Joe to J. Parnell. I seem to recall reading that Errol is jaunting about the globe somewhere at the moment, but also at the moment he's giving us a lesson in how to get things done in "Silver River" on the Warner screen.

The cool, impassive face, trembling only at the thought that Ann Sheridan is leaving him. The hurt, injured eyes when the Army, mistaking his motives, cashiers him out of service just after Gettysburg. The set of the jaw when he determines that from now on the rules of Life's Game will be Errol's rules. The hard tone of his voice when he tells the mine owners of Colorado that he'll take over some of their stock. The warm passion in his husky assurances to President Grant that the United States will control the silver of the world.

Errol understands the Silver Question, which is more than years of schooling have been able to do for me. He even explains it in a few brief sentences, which seems to satisfy both miners and mine owners, though I'm afraid I'm still at the foot of the Silver Question class.

Still, I'll take Flynn's word for it. His sublime assurance even when he's on the side of greed completely demolishes my sense of values. He wastes no time being kind to the peasants—I wish you could see the way he tramples on them—and when he picks his friends they're rugged types, too. Ann Sheridan's husky voice objects when he preempts her wagons to lug his gambling equipment into Silver City, but even virtuous Ann falls for his flamboyant charm and dwells happily for a spell in his wasteland castle. Thomas Mitchell, schooled at Harvard but a worthless drunk when we first meet him, recognizes Errol's leadership qualities, reforms and winds up running for the Senate. But when Tom topples, lead in his belly, Errol sees the error of his ways and the picture fades out with the definite impression that soon it will be Senator E. F.

Errol Makes It Possible

Granted this adventure is made possible by the story-telling facility of Novelist Stephen Longstreet, still it's Errol who makes it all seem possible. This is the Flynn the ladies admire and for whom the men feel a kinship, downtrodden, perhaps, but sensitive to the fact that here's the way a guy will behave if only he has the chance.

Past experience, alas, casts a slight shadow of doubt over Flynn as a 1948 candidate. His modern roles hint that he will look as strange in sack suits and pin stripes as does Pearson's General Ike. The ideal, of course, would be to present Errol the Candidate in his "Silver River" costumes (saved, perhaps, from "Dodge City?"), striding up Philadelphia's Broad st., his slim back ramrod-straight atop a glistening steed.

Errol's mates in "Silver River," apart from Miss Sheridan and Mitchell, include Bruce Bennett (another lost Harvard man), Tom D'Andrea, the cashiered captain's former sergeant who sticks by him through thick and thick, Barton MacLane, Monte Blue and Jonathan Hale. But they're no match for Errol.

I don't know of any more comforting way to fly from the present than a few hours with Errol in "Silver River." If only we could bring him into the present arena I'm sure everything would turn out just fine.

(Inspired by this report on Flynn as the man of the hour, former Navy guy Orval Hopkins contributes a slogan for Errol's campaign: "A Chicken in Every Sack.")

THIS IS THE DAY that bird picture comes back . . . The Hippodrome's "Tawny Pipit" . . . Someone remarked they didn't think this reporter liked bird pictures, judging from his reaction to "Bill and Coo" . . . But in that one birds were playing people and in "Tawny Pipit" birds are playing birds, which makes all the difference . . . This comedy about an English village diverting its war effort to the protection of a rare nesting "anthus campestris" is a real honey, and you'll indeed be missing something if you pass it up.

MEMBERS of the Rainbow Division's local vet organization were on hand for the return of "The Fighting 69th" to the Metropolitan . . . The film traces the old Irish brigade—the Sixty-ninth of New York volunteers—through its development as the 165th Infantry of the Rainbow Division . . . In the cast of the 1940 release are James Cagney, Pat O'Brien, Dennis Morgan, George Brent, Jeffrey Lynn and Dick Foran.

CLARIFICATION NOTE: Though he wears a First Army patch in some of the still pictures you see from "Homecoming," Clark Gable's picture at the Palace finds him beginning overseas service with the Fifth Army in Africa . . . After Italy, the film's story hints, the medics outfit reformed in England and joined the First.

20th-Fox Is Good With Horses

Thunderhead, Turned Outlaw, Gets Same Lavish Treatment

A PICTURE made to order for the youngsters and hoss-flesh fanciers, plus a vaudeville bill that will delight variety fans, forms the Capitol's new program.

"Green Grass of Wyoming" is the picture, a direct sequel to "My Friend Flicka" and "Thunderhead, Son of Flicka." Mary O'Hara continues her stories of these horses and their people, and Twentieth Century-Fox, under Producer Robert Bassler, has given it the splendid careful presentation that was lavished on the previous films. The horses are beautiful and the Technicolor is fine.

The vaudeville bill is as well-balanced a collection of four acts as anyone could ask. A snappy singer, two good comedy acts and an effective dance team form this likable parade.

"Green Grass of Wyoming" carries on the story of Thunderhead, who's now an outlaw, taken to luring mares from their rancher-owners. The plot leads up to the State Fair's big race, with the entries representing both of a romancing duo's families. Peggy Cummins and Charles Coburn, as her bottle-fond grandpop, are on one side of the fence and Robert Arthur, Lloyd Nolan and Geraldine Wall, as Robert's parents, are on the other. The story's only complication is that despite the title, it's laid in Ohio.

Story and lines are intended only as the form through which we enjoy the results of Charles Clark's camera work and the Technicolor process of Natalie Kalmus. Twentieth Century-Fox has virtually adopted this type of film as its own and there's certainly a gnawing thought in the observer's mind that each time Bassler and his associates come up a horse film ("Smoky" was theirs, too), the horses become more like human beings, and the human beings are drifting into vapor.

With Burl Ives on tap, as he was in "Smoky," to sing a few of his inimitable ballads, and with the principals looking open-air fresh, little remains to be said of the cast. In the role one once found Lon McCallister and Marshall Thompson ("Gallant Bess"), is Robert Arthur, a newcomer who's at ease in his simple assignment.

Nifty Chantootsie

Showstopper at the night vaudeville show this reviewer caught was Eileen Barton, a pretty brunette with a smoky voice. She does mighty fine with "Nature Boy" and "Manana" and introduces an amusing novelty, "Yukapuk," if that's how you spell it, by Maury Amsterdam, who wrote about rum and cola a while back. Miss Barton's version of "Night and Day" she can keep; our ears prefer their Cole Porter straight, however you may feel about it. But her other numbers are swell.

Back with those two poodles who never do what is asked of them, are the Gaudsmith Brothers, who have a spot, by the way, in the Capitol's next screen musical, "The Pirate." The boys' act is as funny as ever.

Frank Ross has an engagingly amusing partner in Anita La Pierre; they offer odd sounds and pertinent gestures, which may sound peculiar, but that's exactly what they give, and most amusingly, too.

The Dancing Duanos open the bill, with the lady getting into some zestful poses while whirling. Milt Slosser's organized singing blends whistling with plunk-plunk-plunk and Sammy Carr is banjoist with the Kaufman band.

All in all, it's a nice, unsensational but enjoyable three hours at the Capitol. R. L. C.

Coast Guard Rushes Ships To Portland

Portland, Oreg., May 28 (U.P.).—Army engineers and the Red Cross called on the Coast Guard tonight for aid in the flooded Portland area as the Columbia and Willamette Rivers rose steadily toward their highest crests in half a century.

Five hundred families were forced to flee their homes in the Portland-Vancouver area as Pacific northwest floods took a mounting toll of lives and property damage.

Coast Guard Chief Bosn. F. E. Barnett, flood relief officer, immediately dispatched two cutters to stand by in the Portland area, along with six Coast Guard auxiliary craft. Coast Guard planes at Port Angeles, Wash., stood by for reconnaissance.

Approximately 15,000 flood refugees escaped from overflowing rivers in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and British Columbai. A total of 15 persons drowned. Loss to farmers, dairymen, waterfront industries and property owners rose to several millions of dollars.

The Canadian navy and army moved a fleet of tugs, assault craft and whaling vessels up the flooded Fraser River Valley in British Columbia to evacuate 600 persons.

Portland braced itself against the threat of the worst Columbia-Williamette flood since 1894. Shipyard operations halted. Waterfront industries began closing down at Vancouver, Washougal, Camas, an Ridgefield, Wash., as the Columbia rose almost to street level.

Overflow waters swept across 20,000 acres of Oregon and Washington Dairyland east of Portland and Vancouver. Kennewick, Wash., near the Hanford atomic energy works, was threatened with floods. Already 6000 persons, including 1000 plutonium plant workers, have moved out.

Dig in Vain

Rescue Crew Finds Buried Miner's Body

Scranton, Pa., May 28 (U.P.).—A trapper miner whose rescue was at hand until a new rockfall engulfed him, was found dead 200 feet underground today by weary rescue workers.

Antony Brezak, 34, was crushed under tons of dirt and coal just when volunteer crews which had dug feverishly for 24 hours came within hearing distance.

Two companions, William Ambrose, 53, and Julius Pitarra, 27, were killed in the original cave-in Wednesday night which pinned Brezak behind a 30-ton wall of rock and coal.

Rescuers were spurred on by Brezak's pleas last night of "Hurry up and get me out," but the new slide forced them back and virtually sealed the chamber in which he was entombed.

The tired volunteers continued digging through the night and reached Brezak's body early today. The accident occurred in the Heidelberg colliery at nearby Avoca, Pa.

Nats Sweat Out Bosox Threat to Last Pitch, Win, 2-1

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

OF THE UMPIRING profession it is said the pay is nice and you can't beat the hours. But there are occupational risks and they don't end on the ball field, as Brick Owens once was frightened to discover some years back in Chicago.

POVICH

Owens had just left Comiskey Park under police protection that delivered him from the fangs of White Sox fans who were reaching for his throat after a ninth-inning decision they didn't like. Safe in his hotel, he repaired to the lower-lobby barber shop for a full treatment that would include a sleep-inducing massage.

But the barber was talkative, as Owens slumped into his chair. "See the game today?" he asked Owens. The umpire grunted out something that sounded like yes. "That was the worst decision I ever saw," the barber continued as he lathered the jowls of the heavy-set Owens.

He stood there, honing his long-bladed razor in wide sweeps. "I'd like to get that Brick Owens in this chair," he said. Owens shuddered, looked up, and got a horrifying gander at the barber's machete not 6 inches from his throat.

"How do you want it?" the barber said.

"Once over—lightly," gasped Owens, "thank you very much," and he sweated out the worst 15 minutes of his umpiring career.

THERE'S NO defense for those Griffith Stadium fans who pelted Umpire Red Jones with beer cans, soft drink containers, bottles and even a section of a stadium seat the other night. It was cowardly stuff and inexcusable, but it happens often enough in ball parks to occasion no surprise. The fact that the genus fan can get mad at an umpire to the point of throwing things was established virtually on the nightfall that Abner Doubleday walked off the first baseball diamond.

The setting for the riotous proceedings at the Stadium was perfect. The home town team was trying to come from behind and making a pretty good stab at it. In the inning before, Umpire Bill Summers called Al Kozar out for what he said was running out of the baselines between first and second. That decision took the innards out of a Washington rally.

And so the fans were in a fine pet when, came the ninth, and the worst thing that could happen to an umpire happened. Umpire Red Jones was hit by a thrown ball, by a Washington throw, mind you, and because of that an Athletics runner was safe at the plate. An umpire can call 'em bad, but that's only a misdemeanor compared to the high crime of getting hit by one of the home boy's vital throws to the plate.

THAT'S WHEN the crowd blew its top. According to most of the evidence, Jones was standing in front of Catcher Jake Early where he wasn't supposed to be standing, and Mickey Vernon's throw to the plate hit his chest protector. That was simply too bad for the Nats. The fans might have had some misconception about the ruling on the play—that the ball is supposed to be dead when it hits the umpire.

The difference is, of course, that the ruling on a thrown ball is different from the ruling on a batted ball. When an umpire is hit by a batted ball, it's a dead ball to the point that no base runner can advance except the batter, unless a man is forced over the plate. When Hizzoner is hit by a thrown ball, the ball is in play on the book ruling that the umpire is part of the diamond and no different, for example, than a clod of dirt.

The worst thing that Jones did was aggravate his crime. He was turning his face around to the grandstands in challenging gestures, like Bill McGowan does. Umpires are asking for it when they do that. In fact, umpires shouldn't do that. There are orders against it.

THE UMPIRES, when they don't like the actions of a ball player, always haul out the old accusation, "he was inciting a riot," when they choose to report him to the league president for a possible fine. Clark Griffith was claiming yesterday that Jones, by his challenging actions to the crowd, was himself inciting the riot that almost happened.

Griffith, an old umpire-hater who still holds the record for being thrown out of more ball games in one season than any other man in the 109-year history of baseball, says Jones was plainly rattled. "He should not have been straddling the first-base line when a throw to the plate from first was being made. He was out of position."

Throwing things at the umpire isn't nice, but it has happened and will again. Caspar Milquetoast, who wouldn't raise his voice to his wife or the chief clerk, can work himself into an awful stew at an umpire. Baseball is wonderful in one sense. A bad decision, and Caspar is willing to fight umpires—or cops.

Ted Places Himself at Kids' Disposal

EVERY BOY who participated in the Walter Johnson Memorial baseball schools is invited to the big windup of classes at Griffith Stadium today with Ted Williams in the role of guest star.

Ted said yesterday that he will have to get up at 8:30 o'clock this morning in order to suit up and be on the field at 10 o'clock for his part in the day's activities.

"You just promise the kids for me that I will be there with my uniform on and I'll do whatever they want me to do," Ted said. "I just hope I dont' disappoint them."

Then he asked, "What am I supposed to do?"

TED WILL SHOW the youngsters his grip, stance, how he hits to left field against the Williams shift and other fine points of batting.

"And the kids probably would like to see you hit a couple out of the park," Ted was told.

"Swell, if I can," he said. "Who will do the pitching to me?"

Then he suggested that Paul Schreiber, regular Boston Red Sox batting-practice pitcher, do the pitching. That was all right with the Red Sox so Schreiber will do the pitching.

Manager Joe Kuhel of the Nats last night said that he would have four of the Nats on hand, Nick Altrock, old-time comedian and one time pitching great; Rick Ferrell, coach; Earl Wooten, outfielder, and Sam Meeks, infielder.

The youngsters are requested to be seated at 9:30 between home and third base in the regular grandstand. The show will be over at 11 o'clock.

Today's Program

9:30—Nick Altrock and his comedy act; also what an old-time pitching great has to say about moundwork.

9:45—Sam Meeks on infield play.

10:00—Ted Williams on how to hit, with Paul Schrieber pitching.

10:30—Rick Ferrell on catching.

Turnesa Ousted, Stranahan Gains British Amateur Finals

Sandwich, Eng., May 28 (AP).—Frank Stranahan, the golfing Adonis from Toledo, stroked his way brilliantly into the finals of the British Amateur today but Willie Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y., the defending champion, couldn't make it.

Willie, youngest of a famous golfing family, bowed out on the eighteenth green after having waged a gallant uphill fight against Charlie Stowe, an English Walker Cup star, in the semi-finals.

It was the first time in six rounds of title play that Turnesa had been carried past the fifteenth hole.

Stranahan, a heavy favorite to vanquish Stowe in tomorrow's 36-hole final and win his first major title, spanked around the Royal St. George's course in two strokes under even fours for the 33 holes he needed to subdue two opponents today.

The wealthy young Midwesterner, making his third bid for the British crown since the war, whacked the Brazilian sensation, Mario Gonzalez, 4 and 2, in his morning match, and then stopped Denis Martin, a 41-year-old London stock broker, 3 and 1.

Turnesa, hoping to play in his second straight All-American final on this side, looked like a sure bet as he thumped Sam Roberts of Wales, 4 and 3, in the quarter-finals.

But he faltered for the first time as he started out against Stowe in the afternoon, took 38 fat strokes for the front nine and found himself three down as the match left the twelfth tee.

There the kid brother of the Turnesas showed his class. He won three of the next five holes to stand all square as they teed off on the eighteenth. Then the fates deserted him. Each of his first two shots landed in the rough, and he bowed out to Stowe's steady par 4.

Stowe, 39, and balding, makes $28 a week as a mechanic. Stranahan beat him, 2 and 1, in a Walker Cup match a year ago at St. Andrews, but Stowe vowed tonight he would get even with the millionaire's son tomorrow.

"I've got no fear o Stranahan," he asserted while quaffing his beer. "I've already beat the best man. I reckon Turnesa to be the finest golfer since Bobby Jones."

New York, May 28 (AP).—Home runs by Dick Sisler and Eddie Miller and Richie Ashburn's four hits sparked the Philadelphia Phillies to a 6-3 victory over the New York Giants tonight.

The Giants announced they were playing the game under protest in the ninth inning following a disputed play at second base.

Wynn Drives In Winning Run, Spence Fails in Pinch

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

The Nats and their 13,521 customers sweated out a squeaking ninth inning to the last pitch with the bases full of Red Sox, two out and a 3-and-2 count on Stan Spence—and won a 2-to-1 ball game last night.

For the Nats, Relief Pitcher Tom Ferrick and the fans it was grim stuff in the last two innings after Pinch Hitter Early Wynn delivered a single that broke a 1-1 deadlock in the seventh.

Ferrick took charge of their 2-0 lead and got by the eighth with the help of a timely double-play, but in the ninth he was knee-deep in trouble and ill-luck.

Spence Fails in Pinch

Wally Moses' pinch single to center with one out put the tying run on for the Red Sox, but Ferrick bore down to strike out Bill Goodman only to hear a single off Johnny Pesky's bat that moved Moses to second, in scoring position.

Now Ted Williams, the last guy the Nats wanted to see at bat, was up. Ferrick worked on him, and when Williams pushed a routine grounder at Shortstop Johnny Sullivan, the Nats apparently had the ball game, but the Sox weren't licked yet.

Sullivan, racing to step on second for the force-play that would end the game, slipped on the turf, Pesky beat him to the bag. Williams got a cheap single and the Sox had the bases full.

With Stan Spence up, the Red Sox were within a pitch of getting the tying run forced home as Spence worked Ferrick to a 3-and-1 count. Ferrick got the next pitch over and Spence fouled it into the right field stands. Ultimately, Spence flied into right field and Tom McBride gathered in the victory for the Nats.

Two "Winning Pitchers"

The Nats came up with two winning pitchers last night — Ray Scarborough, who was credited with the victory after holding the Red Sox to one run for seven innings, and Pitcher Early Wynn, who singled as a pinch-hitter.

For the Nats it was a revenge performance against Southpaw Mel Parnell of the Red Sox who had shut them out with five hits the last time they met. Parnell was scarcely disgraced. He held the Nats to seven hit while the Red Sox were collecting nine.

Two Nats were out when they broke the 1-1 deadlock in the seventh. After Gillenwater singled to right with one out and Evans drew a walk, the Nats batted .500 in the pinch-hitter department.

Bosox' Run Tainted

The one run the Red Sox got off Scarborough to take the lead in the fourth was a tainted thing.

Goodman's single and a walk to Pesky put the first two men on and Goodman raced to third after Williams' deep fly to Coan. Spence hit an apparent double-play grounder at Rookie Meek who booted it and Goodman scored.

The Sox later filled the bases with one out but Scarborough pitched himself out of further trouble.

The Nats didn't get their third hit off Parnell until the sixth, but that one was a lusty triple to the

Mrs. Martin, Bower Tie For Post Cup

The Washington Post Trophy, for which the area's Class A women golfers have scrapped since 1933, was assured a brand-new home for a year yesterday as Mrs. A. B. Bower of Indian Spring and Mrs. George Martin of Manor wound up in a tie for top spot in the 18-hole tournament at Army-Navy Country Club.

Mrs. Bower, a seasoned competitor, fired a brilliant 78 and used a 3-stroke handicap for a net 75. Mrs. Martin, whose handicap has dropped to 13 since she took up golf only two years ago, accomplished her 75 with a fine round of 88.

The pair will play off for The Post Trophy next Thursday over the 18-hole tournament at Army-Navy.

Passes Low Gross Prize

Because she has never included The Post Trophy in her numerous triumphs, Mrs. Bowers passed up a chance for yesterday's low gross prize and elected to take her chances in a playoff. Her 78 was three strokes better than the next low scorer, Mrs. Walter Stokes, the Manor star who thus took the gross award.

A banner field of 74 competed in this year's renewal of the featured event. Defending champion was Mrs. J. J. Darby, who was out of the prize list when her clubs failed to produce.

Two Strokes Ahead

Some of the District's finest linkswomen were also out of the running as Mrs. Bowers and Mrs Martin finished two strokes ahead of nearest competition.

There was a five-way tie for third place, eventually won by Mrs. T. Rouchard of Kenwood, with 85-8—77, on a match of the cards against par. Deadlocked were Mrs. F. F. Ramblers Lose, 8-2; Tech Ousted

By Herb Heft

Springing the biggest upset of the Interhigh baseball season, Calvin Coolidge's defending champion Colts upset previously unbeaten Eastern, 8-2, yesterday in the second round of the double elimination playoffs at Griffith Stadium.

In the second game of the doubleheader, Anacostia's Indians eliminated McKinley Tech's Trainers, 3-0, behind the three-hit pitching of George Sengstack.

The Colts' victory moved them within one game of their third successive baseball championship. With a 2-0 record, they remain idle until next Friday.

Meanwhile, on Tuesday afternoon at 3:30, Eastern and Anacostia, each with 1-1 records, battle it out at the ball park for the right to challenge Coolidge Friday.

Coolidge Starts Fast

Eastern took the field an overwhelming playoff favorite, but the unawed Colts went right to work on Rambler Starter Frank Utley, hammering him from the box with a three-run outburst in the first inning.

A walk to Jess Houston and singles by George Ashton filled the bases. Jim Colliton's outfield fly brought in one run, a passed ball let in the second, and Dick Kidwell's single drove in the third.

The Colts scored an unearned run in the second off Reliefer Eddie Kline and then sewed it up with four in the seventh. Feature of the seventh-inning Coolidge rally was Colliton's tremendous bases-loaded triple, a liner which hit the base of the right field wall on the fly.

Indians Explode in Seventh

The first six innings of the second game were featured by the two-hit pitching performance of Tech's Bob Stewart and Anacostia's Sengstack. Anacostia gained a one-run edge in the second when Ralph Fraser walked, stole second and third and scored on Jerry McPherson's single.

However, the Indians knocked Stewart out of the box in the seventh with a pair of runs.

IN WAKE OF NEAR RIOT—The Garland brothers, Reginald E., 44, of 7000 South 24th st., Arlington, on the left, and James H., 45, of 3238 South Utah street, Arlington (right), were among persons arrested Thursday night when fans staged a near riot at the Nats-Philadelphia ball game at Griffith Stadium. Police Pvt. John W. Bonomo leaves the park with the Garlands in custody. Their cases were dismissed yesterday in court. The fans took exception to a decision by Umpire Red Jones at the plate the affair to Judge Aubrey Fennell thusly:

Harp, out on the grass, saw Reginald Garland of Arlington hurl something from the stands and signaled Bonomo to make the arrest. Bonomo thought Harp wanted both Garland and his brother, James, picked up and prepared to make the arrests. Peer stepped in at this point, arguing vehemently with Bonomo over the arrest, whereupon the two brothers and Peer were taken to the Thirteenth Precinct.

The brothers were acquitted of disorderly charges. Charges against Carl M. Armfelt of assaulting an officer were dropped.

Fan Fined $10 in Connection With Near-Riot at Stadium

A single fine of $10 yesterday resulted from Thursday night's near-riot during the Nats-Philadelphia game at Griffith Stadium.

Protesting the arrest of another fan brought down the only fine in the wake of a fracas in which hundreds of beer cans and bottles were hurled at Umpire Red Jones during the ninth inning of a game the Nats lost, 7-3.

Donald E. Peer of Arlington was assessed the $10, technically for disorderly conduct, while two other fans were acquitted and charges against a fourth were dropped.

Two policemen, Pvts. H. L. Harp and John Bonomo, described

Bethesda Wins Golf Crown Again

Bethesda-Chevy Chase defeated Montgomery Blair, 5-4, yesterday at Congressional to clinch the Metropolitan High School Golf League championship for the third straight year.

It was also Bethesda's forty-third consecutive victory over a four-year stretch.

In other Metro league matches, Georgetown Prep blanked St. John's 9-0 at Prep, and Gonzaga downed Devitt 5½-3½ at Kenwood.

Coolidge maintained its lead in the Interhigh League by defeating Anacostia 7½-1½ at Woodmont. Coolidge has a 5-0 league record. In another Interhigh League match Western routed Roosevelt, 8-1, at Washington.

Two Terps, Hoya Qualify In IC4A Track

New York, N. Y., May 28 (AP).—Two Maryland University athletes and one from Georgetown survived today's qualifying trials in the IC4A track and field championships at Triborough Stadium.

The lone Georgetown survivor was Ed Sause, who finished second in a 440-yard dash heat won by Royce Crimmin of Brown in 48.8 and thereby qualified for tomorrow's eight-man final.

But in so doing, Sause shut out Ed Matthews of Maryland, who was seeded first in the event by virtue of his 48.6 being the best previous performance in the field. Matthews ran third behind Crimmin and Sause, failing to qualify for the final.

Salvenelli Wins

Marion Salvenelli of Maryland reached the semifinals, scheduled tomorrow, in both the 120-yard high hurdles and the 220-yard lows. He finished second behind Jeff Kirk of Pennsylvania in his 220-yard heat run in 24.4 seconds, and was third in a 120-yard trial, won by Ed Dahl of Rhode Island State in 15.2.

Augustus Eichhorn of Maryland was among six qualifiers for tomorrow's finals in the javelin throw. He heaved the spear 181 feet, 3 inches, for the fourth best effort today.

Smith Loses Out

David Smith, of Georgetown failed to qualify for the finals in the 880-yard run. He finished third in a heat won by Jack Dianetti of Michigan State in 1:56.3, with Phil Thigpen of Seton Hall third.

Defending champion New York University led the team qualifiers with 14 places against 11 for Yale.

Michigan State trailed with seven and the rest of the record field of 47 colleges, chiefly from the East, gained only scattered places.

Gil Bogley, Wesely Win

Gil Bogley of Landon and Ed Wesely of Georgetown Prep qualified for the National Interscholastic tennis tournament yesterday by advancing to the finals of the District Interscholastics at Landon.

Top-seeded Bogley ousted teammate Dick (Smokey) Stoever, 6-1, 6-3. Second-seeded Wesely downed Landon's Jackie Yates, 6-4, 9-7.

Bogley and Wesely square off for the title at 10 a. m. today at Landon. Bogley defeated the Georgetown Prepman last month for the Sidwell Friends invitational tournament title.

Finals are scheduled at 11:30 in doubles. Bogley and Yates, defending doubles titlists, face Dick Lewis and Ted Rogers, also of Landon.

Kleggie Hermsen Signed by Caps

Clarence "Kleggie" Hermsen, six-foot, nine-inch, 225-pound center who was acquired by the Washington Capitols in a trade for John Mahnken recently, yesterday signed his 1948-49 contract for the Baseball Association of America season after a brief conference with Owner Mike Uline and Coach "Red" Auerbach. He scored 575 points, an average of 12 per game, with Baltimore last season, and accounted for 98 points in the playoffs.

Central Netmen Lose to Riders, 8-1

Central High's Carleton Hoffner defeated George Goldsmith of Roosevelt, 6—2, 6—4, for the Vikings' only win as the Riders triumphed 8—1 yesterday at Central. It was the second win in six matches for the Vikings and their first Interhigh victory.

Pity the Scorekeeper

Melbourne, Australia, May 28 (U.P.).—Labor Leader J. J. Brown broke the world's rope-skipping record today. He jumped the rope 21,138 times in 110.25 minutes. The previous record was 20,010 jumps in 113.8 minutes. It was set by T. Thompson, of Colorado.

Mrs. Dole Wins At Congressional

Mrs. F. P. Dole reached the seventeenth green with her 14 stroke handicap to win the Class A Ladies' Day Flag tournament at Congressional Country Club yesterday.

Mrs. G. M. Street won the Class B play, finishing on the eighteenth fairway, and Mrs. B. L. Eberts won the Class C tourney, reaching the seventeenth green. Low put honors went to Mrs. D. L. Moorman.

IN SHORT—The customers were not in a completely forgiving mood after the previous night's rumpus against Umpire Red Jones. All the umpires were booed when they took up their positions . . . Manager Joe McCarthy juggled his lineup, benching First Baseman Jake Jones and Outfielder Sam Mele for nonhitting, moving Stan Spence into right field, and drafting Infielder Bill Goodman for first-base duty . . . The Nats have all but abandoned their Williams shift, except for shading him to right in the outfield . . . Eddie Yost's vicious triple to the center-field wall that led to the tying run in the sixth broke a dearth of 20 consecutive hitless appearances at bat for Yost . . . The Nats' attempted double steal in the seventh was an absurd effort, with Al Evans breaking for the plate with the pitch . . . Rookie Dick Welteroth will make his first major league start today in the doubleheader with the Red Sox . . . in the other game, Mickey Haefner will seek to shake his five-game losing streak.

Mrs. Todd Gains Finals In Doubles

Paris, May 28 (AP).—Mrs. Patricia Canning Todd of La Jolla, Calif., disqualified from singles competition in which she is defending champion, gained the final round of the women's doubles in the French International tennis tourney.

She combined with Doris Hart of Miami, to defeat Mrs. Hilda Deloschell of Austria and Mrs. Szuszy Kormoczy of Hungary, 6-1, 6-0..

Mrs. Todd was disqualified from singles play yesterday when she refused to meet Mrs. Nelly Landry of France, on the No. 2 court. The American insisted that the semi-final match was worthy of the No. 1 court. Tournament officials disagreed.

Could Lose Cup Berth

The incident could deprive her of her berth on the United States Wightman Cup team.

The United States Law Tennis association in New York announced that while it had "no statement to make at the present," it "undoubtedly" will investigate the situation.

The spokesman added that it would be possible for the association to suspend Mrs. Todd from the Wightman Cup rivalry between the United States and Great Britain, but "that no action would be taken until a complete investigation is made."

Justifying her action in refusing to play yesterday, she pointed out:

"Had it been anyone else except their own No. 1 player I would have considered playing the side court, but we both deserve to play the center court with proper linemen and proper judges."

Mrs. Landry could not be found, but Pierre Giloux, president of the French Lawn Tennis Association, officially announced, as Mrs. Todd sat under a tree near the courts:

"Mrs. Todd scratched."

Insists She's Still In

Mrs. Todd insisted she had not scratched.

But so far as the tournament itself was concerned she was on the outside looking in and Mrs. Landry will meet Miss Shirley Fry of Akron, Ohio, tomorrow for the title.

The Todd-Hart pair will oppose Shirley Fry of Akron, Ohio, and Mrs. Mary Arnold Prentiss of Los Angeles for the title. The latter team defeated Mrs. Helen P. Rihbany of Boston, and Barbara Scofield of San Francisco, 6-1, 6-4.

The Los Angeles team of Frankie Parker and Budge Patty was eliminated in the men's doubles semi-finals by Jaroslav Drobny of Czechoslovakia, and Lennart Bergelin of Sweden. The scores were 3-6, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4.

250 Watch LaMotta Drill

Jake LaMotta, Bronx middleweight who boxes Ken Stribling Monday night at Griffith Stadium, yesterday gave about 250 onlookers at Turner's Arena a preview of his body-punching in his first local workout.

LaMotta went four rounds, two each with Terry Gibson and Frankie Cravetti.

The Bronx boxer, who has been training with Steve Belloise in New York, weighed 164 prior to yesterday's drill.

Stribling also worked out, going five rounds with two sparmates. Manager Billy Banks said his charge expects to enter the ring at 163 pounds.

Falls Church Triumphs, 16-15

D. C. Welfare Board Votes Priority to 4 Projects

Infirmary for Aged And New Buildings At Training Schools Will Be Sought

The Board of Public Welfare yesterday decided to give priority in its 1950 budget estimates to four building projects, at an estimated cost of four to five million dollars.

Repeatedly the board has asked for funds to rebuild antiquated institutions; time and again its plans have been trimmed by the Commissioners and Congress.

The board's $9,500,000 construction program for 1949 was slashed to $370,000 by the Commissioners before sending it to Congress. It is still pending in the Senate.

Planned Requests.

The board yesterday resolved to request in the 1950 estimates:

1. A 300-bed infirmary at the Home for the Aged and Infirm at Blue Plains, recently branded a "fire trap." The present infirmary is a potential funeral pyre for 150 patients, the board says. Moreover, at least 25 persons are on a growing infirmary waiting list. Cost would be about $1,850,000.

2. Detention buildings for boys and girls at the District Training School, near Laurel, Md. There now is no security building for delinquents and feeble-minded, many of whom are dangerous when at large. Cost would approximate $600,000.

3. New buildings at Laurel Center to replace the Industrial Home School for white children. Plans being drawn provide for 200 capacity. Preliminary estimate is $1,200,000.

4. A new 100-capacity National Training School for Girls, to replace the 35-capacity institution at MacArthur blvd. and Little Falls rd., which is in a residential section, is antiquated and, according to the board, unsuited to institutional use. Preliminary estimate, $400,000.

Girls School Land Bought

Plans for the infirmary have been completed; plans for the detention buildings are nearing completion. Congress already has appropriated funds for plans for the new buildings at Laurel Center. Land for the new NTS for Girls has already been purchased at Jolly Acres, a mile from Laurel, Md.

After extensive discussion, the board deferred for 30 days decision on a recommendation that it refuse applications for assistance from persons in private homes for the aged and blind.

The ruling had been asked by Raymond Clapp, principal assistant to the welfare director.

His suggestion, that acceptance of a person by an institution for the aged or blind be considered as a presumption of life-long obligation of that institution to that person, was tabled pending further investigation by the board.

Other Actions

In other actions, the board:

Permitted transfer to the Home for the Aged of persons in public hospitals without requiring application by the individual concerned.

Continued use of $20,000 annually received under the Social Security Act, for child welfare services, to maintain four positions in the child welfare division. Also, a new part time post will be created to reorganize instruction and regulation manuals.

Decided to pay for burial only of indigent persons who died while receiving public assistance or previously were on relief rolls and assigned insurance policies to the board. Heretofore, all indigents were buried at board expense, on application of relatives.

Shea Appointed Head Of Industrial School

Gerard M. Shea, 35-year-old assistant superintendent of the Industrial Home School, was named superintendent of the school yesterday, by the Board of Public Welfare.

The appointment, made on recommendation of the board's institutions committee, headed by A. J. Driscoll, is subject to approval of the District Commissioners.

The post has been vacant since the former superintendent, John W. Tramburg, was sworn in May 13, as director of public welfare. Since then Shea has been acting superintendent. His appointment was advised by Tramburg.

A native of Boston, Mass., Shea received B. A. and M. A. degrees from Boston College and an M. S. degree in social work from the Boston College graduate school.

He was a student social worker with Catholic Charities in Boston, then, in 1941, supervised 100 boys in foster homes under the program of the Angel Guardian Home in Brooklyn, N. Y. He first came in contact with work of the Industrial Home School here as Juvenile Court probation officer for the District, from January, 1942, to February, 1943. He served as a lieutenant in the Naval Reserve during the war.

As director of the school at 2453 Wisconsin ave. nw., he will currently supervise some 95 boys and 37 girls.

Blonde Arrested in Mexico On Washington Check Charges

A blonde of 24 known in Mexico as Dorothy J. Bacon and listed by Washington police as Deejaen Bacon, alias Dorothy Nolan, formerly of 3024 Wisconsin ave. nw., has been arrested in Mexico City and will probably be brought back here to face forged check charges totalling almost $10,000.

Mexican police are now holding her in jail at the request of the U. S. Embassy, which has been looking for the blonde among the darker native senoritas since last January.

Extradition proceedings have been filed by local police through the U. S. Attorney's office and the State Department, and a policeman may be sent to retrieve her.

She was indicted by a District grand jury on February 24, 1947, on charges of having signed $9574 worth of checks with the name of Cornell N. Shelton, the captain who was Madame Chiang Kai-shek's pilot.

She told police he had been her fiance and had given her verbal authority to draw on his account at the Riggs National Bank. Police said at her arraignment that Captain Shelton denied this.

Miss Bacon used the money, according to police, to buy four fur coats, a diamond wrist watch and diamond earrings and choker. Held under $3000 bond, she was again arraigned before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage on September 17, 1947, on a bad check charge and a $500 bond was added.

DEEJAEN BACON

Because of the frequent absences of Captain Shelton, who was flying for TWA, no trial was set in the case and in the meantime, police learned, Miss Bacon decided to try a different climate.

D. C. Plans Fire Safety Code Drive

New Law Designed To Avert Disasters In Large Buildings

A toned-down version of the District's tough new fire safety code will be enforced in existing buildings here beginning January 1, the Commissioners announced yesterday.

They formally approved amendments proposed by a 19-member committee set up to study the code's revision in March, 1947, after building owners complained of the high cost of compliance.

Eleven witnesses approved the amendments and only one letter of dissent was filed at a public hearing Wednesday.

The new code, designed to avert fire disasters like the Winecoff Hotel blaze in Atlanta and Boston's Cocoanut Grove holocaust, was adopted by the Commissioners in March, 1946, but enforced in new buildings only. (Amendments easing the regulations for new construction were adopted in September, 1947.)

Enforcement in buildings constructed prior to March, 1946, was postponed three times to next January 1. Engineer Commissioner Gordon R. Young said he believes the intervening seven months will give building owners ample time in which to make alterations necessary for compliance.

Girl, 5, Hit By Truck, Dies In Hospital

Carol Rae Scarborough, 5, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Scarborough, died in Providence Hospital yesterday, three hours after she was struck by a truck near her home in Upper Marlboro, Md.

The mishap occurred at noon on Largo rd. near Marlboro Pike, not far from the Scarborough home at 3 Chelsea dr.

Police said the child was knocked 20 feet after she was struck by the right door handle and gas tank cap of the delivery truck. The youngster apparently ran into the side of the moving vehicle, police said.

The truck was driven by Walter Ray Cubbage, 31, of Plum Point, Md., a dealer for the Evening Star. He was released under $500 bond on a technical charge of reckless driving but will later be rearrested on a technical charge of manslaughter, police said.

The child's father is a salesman of children's furniture.

In another Prince Georges County traffic accident yesterday, G. F. Hilfreding, 53, of Baltimore, Md., suffered a broken nose when a car driven by his son struck the rear of a bus in Riverdale, Md. Police identified the automobile driver as Lloyd Ivan Hilfreding, 20, of Baltimore.

The bus, operated by Charles H. Best, 32, of 17 Adams st. nw., had stopped to pick up passengers when the accident occurred, police said.

Traffic Death Charge Against Marine Dropped

A technical charge of manslaughter placed against Pfc. Courtland W. Sands, 18-year-old Marine, following a fatal jeep crash last Tuesday, has been dropped by Prince Georges County authorities.

Assistant State's Attorney Hervey G. Machen, jr., said the charge had been withdrawn at the request of Navy officials. The youth was released in custody of Potomac River Naval Command authorities a few hours after the fatal crash.

Victim of the accident, which occurred at Prince Georges and Montgomery aves., Beltsville, was Pfc. Clifford Purcell, 23, a passenger in the jeep driven by Sands. Both youths were stationed at the White Oak Naval Ordnance Laboratory.

Group Fights Segregation In Fire Dept.

Civic Federation To Ask Langer to Discuss Issue

The Federation of Civic Associations, Inc., took steps last night to obtain relief from Capitol Hill from continuance of segregation in the District Fire Department.

At a meeting in the board room of the District Building, the group voted to petition Senator William Langer (R., N. D.), chairman of the Senate Postoffice and Civil Service Committee, for a meeting to discuss recent actions on segregation by the District Firemen's Association, also known as Local No. 36, International Association of Fire Fighters.

The motion was proposed by Past President Woolsey W. Hall.

The local's activities were cited as being to the "great hindrance of distinguished, efficient and gifted (Fire Chief) Clement Murphy."

The firemen's group urged the Commissioners on April 16 to continue segregation in the department as integration would cause "lowered morale and decreased efficiency."

The association also opposed establishment of a playground for Negro children in the block bounded by 13th, 14th, S and T sts. nw. since the site has no entrance except through an alley.

In recommending this location May 7 Harry Wender, chairman of the District Recreation Board, said it was "admittedly inadequate," but added that it was the only land available in the area for supervised recreation.

In other business the group approved in principle HR 805 which would end segregation in all places of public accommodation in the District, voted to send representatives to a city-wide meeting to support passage of HR 6488 to end segregation in public schools here and urged Speaker Joseph Martin (R., Mass.) to bring the home rule bill onto the House floor for vote during the present session of Congress.

Agriculture Secretary Brannan Is Confirmed

The Senate yesterday unanimously confirmed Charles F. Brannan to be Secretary of Agriculture.

He succeeds Clinton P. Anderson, who resigned to run for the United States Senate in New Mexico.

Brannan was Assistant Secretary under Anderson.

GHI Offers New Terms To Hospitals

Hospitalization Group to Pay More For Services, Pass Bill to Subscribers

Group Hospitalization, Inc., has offered 17 Washington area hospitals new contracts providing increases in payments, and will in turn pass the added costs on to its more than 360,000 subscribers.

The 1948 contracts were made retroactive to January 1, said a GHI official yesterday, but increases to subscribers of the medical insurance plan cannot become effective until September.

The new contracts provide for payments to hospitals averaging about $3 more per patient-day than were provided under last year's contracts, excluding "adjustments" later paid by GHI to participating hospitals.

Costs Not Fixed

GHI, the official said, has yet to determine how much more the hospitalization insurance will cost its customers. "It will be a substantial increase," the spokesman added. He pointed out that the nonprofit corporation has not raised its rates since it began in 1934.

At least 4 of the 17 hospitals, Providence, Doctors, Emergency and Arlington, have already signed and returned the contracts, officials said. Of the others, only one, Garfield Hospital, has indicated the proposed contract is unsatisfactory.

Arkell B. Cook, Garfield administrator, said the hospital board was seeking "modifications" of some of the contract points. The board, he said, feels higher rates should be made for some of the services.

Special Survey Made

The new agreements were drawn up, GHI said, after costs' surveys were made of each hospital by Wayne Kendick & Co., certified public accountants. Payments are being based on the individual hospital's costs as found by the audit, plus $1.25 a day, or normal charges of the hospital, whichever is lower.

A ceiling of $14.02 per patient day is included in the contracts, excepting for Georgetown and George Washington University Hospitals where the ceiling was set at $15 for first-year operation costs of new hospitals. Rate changes may be made after six months if warranted by new cost surveys, according to the contracts.

Coincident with releasing details of the proposed contracts, GHI officials yesterday revealed the corporation had last week paid the hospitals a total of $125,000 to make up for 1947 losses sustained by participating hospitals on GHI patients. The sum brought to $195,000 the total paid out this year by GHI for 1947 "adjustments."

Gaithersburg Girl Is County's First Tick Fever Case

Montgomery County's first spotted fever case of the year, a 4-year-old girl, of near Gaithersburg, Md., was reported yesterday by the County Health Department.

Dr. Frank J. Broschart identified the girl as Barbara Ann Allen, daughter of Mrs. Gracie Allen, who has nine other children.

The physician said he first diagnosed the disease on Thursday and he described the girl's condition as "very good."

The family lives in a wooded area, Dr. Broschart said, and he added that many ticks had been pulled from the girl's body.

So far this year, a 70-year-old Frederick County farmer has died of the malady, May 14, and a 32-year-old Fairfax County man, May 16.

Has Heart Ailment

Gen. Merrill of 'Marauders' Considered for Retirement

Regardless of what Army medical authorities might think, Brig. Gen. Frank Dow Merrill has as much heart left as ever.

The famed leader of the "Marauders," up for retirement because of a heart ailment at 44, said yesterday at Walter Reed Hospital that he would gladly experience all over again the struggle against Japs in the hot and insect-ridden jungles of Burma.

Merrill

For General Merrill is strictly Army—not in the brass hat tradition ("I'd make a helluva good private," he said), but in his love for the organization which "has always treated me well. Where everyone was always decent toward me."

And this isn't just a bird's eye view from the Officers Club colored rosy by the cherry in a long, cool Tom Collins.

It is the considered opinion of a man who put in a hitch as a private, and who today says simply, "If I had it to do over again I'd have been a better private."

Merrill's weary months at Walter Reed have been brightened by visits from his old jungle-fighters, who spearheaded the joint Chinese-American attack on the Japs in north Burma.

"I see lots of them," the general smiled. "We talk about the usual stuff—just swap reminiscenses.

What does he think of universal military training? "I tell you," he said, "I wouldn't have the slightest objection to their taking my two sons." (The boys, 17 and 10, are at the Merrill home at Woodstock, N. H.)

How about the Army as a career for the average youth? "It's all according to what the individual likes," he said. "Some like to be doctors or lawyers. I like soldiering."

It was this love of Army that made Merrill try six times to get into West Point before he was finally accepted. He was graduated in 1929.

The retirement board didn't make a final decision yesterday. An announcement is expected early next week, public relations officials said.

But the general has made his decision. It is, if he is retired, "a long, long rest and lots of fishing."

FESTIVAL FOLK—Complete with wooden shoes and pipe, Susan Buys (left) and Mary Slotemaker prepare to dance with the Netherlands group as part of a festival to benefit American Overseas Aid, United Nation Appeal for children

PRIMPING—Three-year-old Brooke Daniel gets a hair-do from her mother, Mrs. Margaret Daniel of 6419 Dahlonega rd., Glen Echo, Md., for the child's portrayal of "Spring" with the Italian group last night. Twenty-six embassies participated in Constitution Hall

Color and music of America and foreign lands flashed across the stage of Constitution Hall last night for the benefit of American Overseas Aid, United Nations Appeal for Children.

Nearly 3000 persons turned out for the festival to which a score of embassies and legations contributed talent in what H. R. Baukhage, radio commentator, termed "a gesture of gratitude for what we are trying to do for the children of the world."

Baukhage spoke briefly in behalf of the Washington committee for the Appeal, which is trying to give immediate aid to children in war-devastated sections of the world.

Mostly the swiftly moving acts featured the dances and gaiety of the nations, and frequently they were built around national holiday customs.

"The First Thanksgiving," the opening act, featured the American holiday, and was followed by American square dances, setting a gay precedent for the national dances that followed.

Austria's contributions to music were stressed in "Spring in Vienna," and old China's elaborate costumes brought feminine gasps with their beauty.

Christmas customs were contrasted in the Czechoslovakian presentation, "St. Nicholas of Long Ago," and the Swedish "Santa Lucia and the Star Children."

A note of gravity was interjected with the Greek presentation, "On Wings of Glory," written by Mme. Paul Economou-Grouras, wife of the Greek counselor. On the theme, "Greece fights for freedom," it depicted her kilted Evzones in combat today.

Mrs. Blake Clark was general chairman of the festival, organized and produced in less than three weeks. Mrs. John B. Goodell was organizing chairman, Mrs. Rose Bakalar Berman, director, and Mme. Rajan Nehru, embassy chairman.

National goal of the Appeal for Children is 60 million dollars. Washington headquarters is at 1622 H st. nw.

Capital Transit To Raise Md. Fares June 6

Company to Appeal 3-Cent Student Rate, $200,000 Loss Seen

The Capital Transit Co. will increase regular bus and streetcar fares on its Maryland lines, beginning Sunday, June 6. A reduced rate for school children will go into effect at the same time.

Fare changes are in accordance with an order by the Maryland Public Service Commission, which made an increase in regular fares to 5 cents a zone contingent on a reduction in the fares for school children to 3 cents per zone.

The order, contested by the transit company, was upheld by Judge W. Conwell Smith of the Circuit Court of Baltimore on Tuesday. However, the company announced yesterday it would appeal to the Maryland Court of Appeals for a straight 5-cent fare, without the special school rate.

$200,000 Losses Seen

Company officials maintain the new 5-cent fares would still result in losses of almost $200,000 annually on its Maryland operations, without the school fare reduction.

The zones to be established, each of about 1½ miles, will radiate from the District through Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties.

Unused fare or commutation tickets, not valid after June 6, will be redeemed at pro-rata value at company offices, or may be mailed for redemption in prepaid envelopes available from the operator or terminal inspectors, the company announced.

Tickets now sold at 20 for $1 will be good until used, but each such ticket will be good only for a ride within the new zone limits.

The new fare zones will be established on the following lines:

Route 20, Cabin John; Route 82, Maryland car line; Route 84, Beltsville line; Routes B-4, B-6, East Riverdale-Cheverly; Routes F-8, G-6, Hyattsville; Route G-8, Greenbelt, and Route H-8, Community line.

Extension Asked

Extension of the Capital Transit Co.'s Rock Creek Forest bus line, Route L-6, to the street car and bus terminal at Eastern and Georgia aves., at the District line, has been asked by the company in petitions to the Maryland Public Service Commission and the District Public Utilities Commission.

The route would be extended from its present terminus at East-West Highway and Colston dr. in Montgomery County, via Grubb rd., Colston dr. and Washington ave., West Beach dr., Kalmia rd. and 12th st.

The extension, requested by residents of the area, would be contingent on the hard surfacing of the unpaved portion of the route, expected in the near future.

The company proposes to provide hourly service, with 25 to 30 minute rush hour service.

Stations Thronged

Holiday Traffic Jam Under Way

Heavy holiday traffic yesterday started to move in two directions—into and out of the city—as throngs of residents heading for resorts and beaches passed thousands of Washington-bound tourists.

Tempering the gaiety of the crowds off to an early start on a three-day holiday was a Memorial Day appeal from President Truman, who called on Americans to join on Sunday in a day of prayer "that permanent peace may prevail among men."

In signing a Memorial Day proclamation, the Chief Executive set 8 p. m. Sunday as the start of an hour of peace prayers. His appeal was made as he prepared to leave for a weekend cruise aboard the presidential yacht, Williamsburg.

Despite the prospect of cloudy weather and occasional showers over the weekend, railroads, bus companies and airlines reported their terminals flooded with record crowds.

The American Automobile Association estimated that private auto traffic was from 23 to 24 per cent ahead of last year, when the Memorial Day celebration also fitted into a three-day weekend for Government workers.

Indications were that the influx of tourists would almost match the exodus of recreation seekers, and Washington looked forward to its busiest tourist weekend since the cherry blossom festivities.

Leading hotels in the area reported they were overloaded with reservations.

At Union Station, "extra heavy" traffic was in evidence throughout yesterday morning, but the real rush began after 4 p. m., when Government workers and others were released from their places of employment.

To accommodate the rush, the Pennsylvania Railroad had ten extra trains waiting; the Baltimore and Ohio had four, and all regular trains were equipped with extra coaches.

Washingtonians leaving the city, as well as stay-at-homes were warned to exercise extreme caution over the weekend as the result of the abnormally heavy volume of traffic.

The warnings came from Traffic Director George E. Keneipp, who called for special care by motorists, and the American Automobile Association, which cautioned that highways here and in other States will be heavily loaded and will present exceptional traffic safety problems.

Keneipp said there were no traffic deaths in the District last Memorial Day weekend, but pointed out there were 94 accidents in which 40 persons were seriously injured.

Death Penalty Given in Rape Of 9-Year-Old

Furniture Mover Sentenced to Die In Chair on July 15

Theodore M. Holmes, 22-year-old furniture mover, yesterday was sentenced to die in the electric chair in the District Jail on July 15 for the rape of a 9-year-old girl near the National Arboretum on March 18.

Justice Edward M. Curran of the District Court imposed the sentence after he had overruled a motion for a new trial filed by Maurice R. Weeks, counsel for Holmes.

Other sentences imposed in District Court yesterday included:

By Justice Richmond B. Keech—Albert C. Lewis, 26, of Rockville, Md., who was found guilty of assault with intent to rape a 24-year-old girl clerk in an automobile parked in the 3000 block of N st. nw. on the night of January 29, a sentence of one to three years in prison, which the justice suspended; Haywood F. Wilburn, 22, who was found guilty of rape after a 32-year-old woman testified he broke into her bedroom on Florida ave. nw. one night in February and forced her to submit to his advances by threatening her with a razor, a sentence of 4 to 15 years in prison; and Lloyd G. Lindo, 26, who was found guilty of carnal knowledge of a 14-year-old girl, a sentence of 20 months to 5 years in prison.

By Justice Alexander Holtzoff—Earl T. Artis, 21, who was found guilty of carnal knowledge of a 13-year-old girl, a sentence of one to five years in prison.

New Trial Sought By Defendants in Union Looting

New trial motions were filed in the District Court yesterday by defendants in the $100,000 labor union looting plot case who were convicted of criminal conspiracy by a jury in the court of Justice Alexander Holtzoff two weeks ago.

The defendants, through their attorneys, contended that errors of law marred their trial on charges connected with the alleged embezzlement of funds from the treasury of the International Hod Carriers and Building Laborers Union (AFL), which has a membership of 10,000 in its locals in Washington, La Plata, Md., and Quantico, Va. They asserted that Justice Holtzoff ought to have granted them a judgment of acquittal, as he did four others who were named in the indictment.

Those who were convicted were Faust Moreschi, former secretary-treasurer of the union's District Council; Joseph Speed, former vice president of the District Council; George Morgan, former business agent and financial secretary of Local 74; Evans H. Hamilton, former secretary of Local 74, and Isaac Weiner, a real estate and construction man here.

Man Cleared As Gambler Arrested in County Raid

Alleged 'Kingpin' Seized in Riverdale On Lottery Count; Companion Held

A man, who last week was acquitted on an appeal of a prominent gambling case in Montgomery County, yesterday was seized in a Prince Georges County gambling raid.

He is Wilburn E. Morrow, 53, of 5911 Harrison ave., Riverdale. During his trial in Montgomery County Circuit Court last December, on charges of accepting racing bets, Morrow was described by police as the "kingpin" of gambling in the county.

His conviction on that charge, with a maximum sentence of $1000 fine and one year in jail, was set aside last week by the Maryland Court of Appeals.

Companion Arrested

Yesterday afternoon, Morrow and Wyndol O. Colie, 54, of 806 Silver Spring ave., Silver Spring, were arrested in a raid at 6302 47th ave., Riverdale. Police said they seized $567.88 and a quantity of numbers slips in the house.

Morrow, who listed his occupation as "unemployed," and Colie, a barber, were both charged with operating a lottery and bookmaking, and held in $2000 bond each for trial Thursday in Hyattsville Police Court.

Police said the pair had been operating at the Harrison ave. address for only six days.

The raid was led by Maj. Ralph W. Brown, superintendent of Prince Georges County police, who has declared his intention to wipe out gambling. Participating in the raid were Lieut. C. N. Thomsen, county chief of detectives; Lieut. R. C. Sines, chief of the Hyattsville station, and Detectives Richard A. Pearson, Earl J. Huber and Edwin C. Cissel.

"Threw $2100 Into Gutter"

During Morrow's trial in Montgomery County, a detective testified Morrow threw $2100 into a gutter when arrested, after police placed race horse bets with him.

Morrow's successful appeal of the case carried to the higher court by Attorney Joseph B. Simpson, jr., contended that the county court refused to admit in evidence a garage receipt which, it was claimed, proved that Morrow was in South Carolina at the time of the alleged offense.

In District Court here yesterday, Justice Alexander Holtzoff sentenced six men convicted of gambling charges, sending four of them to jail. All had been charged with operating a lottery.

Leslie R. Rudd, 44, who gave his address as 1913 Massachusetts ave. nw., was given a 30-to-90-day jail term, and two years' probation. Rudd was arrested last May.

George Gaynor, 40, of 1312 V st nw., received a two-to-six-month jail term, growing out of his arrest on January 30, after police undercover men placed numbers bets with him with marked money.

Thomas Fears, 32, of 1334 North Capitol st., was given a $75 fine, a 30-to-90-day suspended sentence, and two years' probation.

Fears was arrested December 15, 1947, with Samuel Walker, 38, of 27 S st. nw. Walker yesterday was sentenced to a two-to-six-month jail term.

Jury Recesses Till Tuesday

Archie Edmonson, 46, of 120 I st. ne., was given 10 to 30 days. Frank W. McClure, 23, of 1616 New Jersey ave. nw., arrested with Edmonson on March 8, at the latter address, was fined $50, given a 30-to-90 day suspended sentence, and placed on probation for two years.

Meanwhile, the special grand jury which since May 18 has been investigating an alleged 100-million-dollar-a-year Washington gambling racket, did not meet yesterday and is not likely to hold any sessions before Tuesday.

When the special jury resumes its probe, it is expected to continue its questioning of police officials. The jury already is known to have heard testimony from five police officers, two convicted gamblers, and a private citizen.

Area News in Brief

House No Sawmill, Blind Tenant Says

Blind peanut vendor Felix Distrito swore yesterday it's not true that the uses his rented house at 610 Massachusetts ave. nw., as a sawmill.

Moreover, said the blind concessionaire at baseball and wrestling assemblies, he doesn't even have a sawmill through attorney Herman Miller.

His denials were in answer to allegations of an eviction suit brought against him in Municipal Court by Joseph A. Hayden, realty agent.

Distrito, 56, unlawfully traded in lumber and clandestinely operated a sawmill on the premises, said Hayden's suit. Neighbors complained the noise disturbed them at nights, and such goings-on impair property value and violate the lease, the agent charged.

In reply, Distrito averred he used the Massachusetts ave. house only for a home for his wife and 11 children, whose ages range from 4 to 40 years. The house was described as having eight rooms plus two in the basement.

The vendor's attorney said that in a suit filed in Municipal Court on December 2, 1946, Distrito was accused of damaging the property. In that suit, said Miller, Judge Aubrey Fennell ruled in Distrito's favor.

Last February, Miller continued, Distrito won a reduction in rent from $45 to $40 a month, only a few months after owners of the property were refused their plea to increase the rent to $55.

Judge Nadine Lane Gallagher yesterday set next Tuesday for trial on the eviction suit, which was entered for the realty agent by Attorney Donald M. Sullivan.

Variety Club Gifts

Two infant resuscitators were presented to Garfield Hospital by the Variety Club of Washington in a brief ceremony at the hospital yesterday.

The presentation was made by Fred S. Kogod, chairman of the club's welfare committee. On hand to receive the new equipment for the hospital were William R. Castle, president, and A. B. Cook, administrator.

As a result of the club's gifts, the hospital now has an infant resuscitator in each delivery room and nursery. The resuscitators are used primarily to aid infants who suffer respiratory difficulties due to foreign matter in their throats.

X-Ray Units Idle Monday

All portable X-ray units in the Washington Chest X-ray Survey will be idle on Monday, in observance of the Memorial Day holiday, officals of the survey announced yesterday.

According to survey records, more than two-thirds of the District's 600,000 residents over the age of 15 already have had their chests examined. The campaign, providing free X-rays for all applicants, is scheduled to end on June 15.

Shooting Hearing Put Off

Preliminary hearing for Herman D. Evins, Arlington County Government worker charged with shooting his wife and child May 12, was continued to June 7 yesterday in Arlington County Court because Mrs. Evins is still hospitalized.

County police said Evins had admitted shooting his 23-year-old wife, Elizabeth, and their year-old son, Robert Herman, at the Arlington home of Mrs. Evins' parents because of "in-law trouble." Evins is being held in the county jail in $20,000 bond. Both victims are recovering.

2 Men Held in Boy Case

Lloyd W. Owens, 32, a janitor, and James E. Williams, 32, a pressman, both of 611 K st. nw., were held for the District grand jury on bond of $5000 each yesterday on charges of harboring two 17-year-old boys alleged to have been fugitives from the National Training School for Boys.

Both men pleaded not guilty before Judge Walter J. Casey in Municipal Court yesterday. They also face action in the Juvenile Court on charges contributing to the delinquency of the two boys, who were said to have escaped from the hospital of the school last Tuesday.

Sisters' Trial June 2

Charges against two Alexandria sisters of cruelty to animals and creating a nuisance were continued to June 2 yesterday in Alexandria Civil and Police Court because their attorney could not be present.

On Wednesday, Judge James R. Duncan ordered Miss Mary Louise Nicol 316 N. Washington st., to get rid of the dogs, which health and police officials said were kept in the house, causing unhealthy conditions and annoyance to nieghbors. Police are still looking for her sister, Mrs. Frances Nicol McKone, who is wanted by both Arlington and Alexandria police on bad check charges.

Alexandrians' Zoning Protest Is Overruled

A 100-foot strip of land brought about defeat yesterday for a group of Alexandria homeowners who have been fighting proposed use of a 53-acre tract for apartments.

The homeowners appeared in Alexandria Circuit Court to protest a January action of the City Council which rezoned the land at Commonwealth and Mount Vernon aves., known as the Hume tract. Attorney Gardner L. Boothe, appearing for the development, said a 15-million-dollar project was planned for the site.

Because of the earlier protests Boothe had agreed to a 100-foot strip on the south and west borders as a buffer between the project and the adjacent single family homes.

Following this action the council voted 6 to 3 for the rezoning.

It was this concession by Boothe which acted adversely to yesterday's petition when Judge Paul E. Brown dismissed the case, ruling that the 100-foot strip prevented the objecting landowners from being "immediately adjacent" to the land in dispute. In a similar case heard May 5 he had ruled that "immediately adjacent" means "actually touching."

The objectors based their case on a law which requires a three-fourths vote of the council when owners of 20 per cent of the property "immediately adjacent" to the rear of or opposite to the property object. This would require seven affirmative votes.

Stanley King, attorney for the protesting landowners, said he had not definitely decided whether to appeal.

Took Liquor For Nausea, Officer Says

A police private, charged with being under the influence of alcohol while on duty, yesterday blamed nervousness and nausea spells for his troubles.

Pvt. John E. Cockrill, attached to the Traffic Division and detailed to the Police Central Communications and Records Bureau, pleaded guilty to the charge before the Police Trial Board. He declared, however, that he had had only two drinks, after suffering a nausea spell, before he went to work May 22, the day in question.

At another hearing before the Police Trial Board, Pvt. Ray L. Dixon, 37, of the Ninth Precinct, pleaded not guilty to maltreating a prisoner and unnecessary use of his revolver. The charges grew out of a fracas in which a passerby was shot in the arm April 25.

The trial board, composed of Asst. Supt. of Police Milton D. Smith, Capt. William Cunningham and Assistant Corporation Counsel Stanley DeNeale, took both cases under advisement. A decision in Cockrill's case will be announced at 10 a. m. today; a decision in Dixon's case is expected early next week.

Dixon testified the fracas in which his service gun was accidentally discharged, wounding a passerby, started in the 200 block of Kendall st. ne., when he questioned several persons in a parked car and one man standing beside it, who was drinking from a whisky bottle.

One of the men became disorderly, and he struck him on the shoulder with his baton, Dixon said. A scuffle followed and they both fell to the ground. It was then that his gun fell or was pulled from his holster and was accidentally discharged when both he and the man reached for it, Dixon said.

The passerby, Ray Dearing Lancaster, 31, a bus driver, of 1015 N st. nw., was admitted to Sibley Hospital, but has since been released. Three of the men involved in the fracas were charged with assault on a police officer but the United States Attorney's office said there was not enough evidence to prosecute them, the Trial Board learned.

Another Emperor Penguin Dies at Zoo; Only Two Left

Another Emperor penguin died this week at the Zoo, Dr. Charles M. Mann, director, said yesterday, leaving only two of the eight which arrived on Easter from the Antarctic.

Dr. Mann hopes those who have died were the "weaklings" of the lot, and he said yesterday the two survivors, only Emperors now in captivity, "look pretty good, but you never can tell."

The director derived some slight solace for his loss in the receipt of some "good, fresh sea water" scooped up by Norfolk & Washington Steamboat Co. crewmen in lower Chesapeake Bay. This he is using for the two seahorses recently donated by two Government girls.

The seahorses were badly in need of the fresh supply, as the Zoo is not equipped for salt-water life and has had to improvise such facilities.

Old-Age Pension Group Organizes In Parley Here

Delegates from 35 old-age pension groups closed a two-day conference here yesterday by forming the American Federation of Pension Groups.

Purpose of the conference was to seek replacement of present old-age assistance by a uniform national pension plan.

At a Thursday night banquet, at the Kenesaw, Representative Toby Morris (D., Okla.) told the group he was for any good pension bill instead of the "humiliating old-age assistance." Representative Gerald W. Landis, speaking on the same program, said there are two million people over 65 in the United States today who would like to stop work, "but who cannot because they would starve to death."

Souther Demands Hearing Now on Nullification Plea

Arthur F. Souther, congressional candidate from Virginia's Eighth District, last night disclosed he had urged an immediate hearing by the State Democratic Committee of his appeal for nullification of Arlington's June 2 convention.

In a telegram to Horace H. Edwards, chairman of the State body, Souther contended that the chairman's letter setting July 1 as a hearing date on the appeal "confirms the conviction that no sincere Democrat may expect a fair deal from the present party heads." He charged that the hearing can only be a "post mortem."

The congressional aspirant also charged that "the Arlington machine of (State Senator) Charles Fenwick and (incumbent Congressman) Howard Smith has resorted to every conceivable tactic to deny the people of this county participation in Democratic Party and county affairs."

Mrs. Tyng sat beside him for several hours, believing he had fainted. She went inside the house but returned several times, not realizing her husband was dead, according to police.

He was found at 6 a. m. yesterday when a neighbor noticed the car lights burning. Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald later issued a certificate of death due to natural causes.

Confession Argued In Brothers' Trial

Attorneys defending George A. Garner, 25, and Lawrence J. Garner, 23, who are accused of the murder of two taxicab drivers here three months ago, set out yesterday to convince a District Court jury that the Garners are of unsound mind, and that confessions obtained by the Metropolitan Police were enforced by brutal beatings.

The prosecution rested after Assistant District Attorney Arthur J. McLaughlin read the jury the confessions of the Garners that they robbed and killed Howard Jones, 37, of 417 Irving st. nw. the night of February 27. They also are accused of the holdup killing of James Hardy, 38, on the same night.

Although Justice Richmond B. Keech permitted the confessions to be read after he had overruled defense claims that they were obtained by brutality, the defense attorneys renewed these contentions before the jury. The defense counsel, John Alvin Croghan and Louis Jongbloet, assert, too, that the Garner brothers are victims of a hereditary taint of murder and insanity which has afflicted their family for four generations.

The brothers are on trial at present only for the death of Jones, but their attorneys sought to bolster the insanity defense by placing the Hardy killing before the trial jury.

Thelma Harris, 23, who has been living with George Garner, testified that she was allowed to talk to George at police headquarters and that he showed signs of beating.

Miss Harris testified she knew of three times when George Garner was moody and depressed and attempted to take his own life. Once, she said, was in June, 1946, when he was unhappy over being out of a job, Garner mixed water and lye, and tried to drink them. The next month, she said, after they had a quarrel he fastened a belt around his neck, looped it over a bed post and undertook to hang himself. And in September, 1947, she said, Garner made another suicide attempt with a belt, after a controversy with members of his family.

On cross examination, Miss Harris admitted that she went on living with George Garner, even though she was aware that he was married to another woman. She also admitted that photographs taken of George Garner after his questioning by the police did not show the traces of mistreatment she mentioned.

The trial will be resumed Tuesday.

Nurse Training In High School Is Advocated

Frederick, Md., May 28 (Spl.).—Nursing instruction should be offered as part of a high school curriculum in the junior and senior years, Mrs. Adrienne Bowermaster, director of nursing of Prince Georges General Hospital at Cheverly, declared today at the closing session of the spring conference of the Maryland-District of Columbia Hospital Association.

"In order to attract students into the nursing field, something more than is now offered to the great number of these girls is essential," Mrs. Bowermaster said. She advocated relieving hospitals of the training of nurses and placing that responsibility in educational instructions with hospital affiliations.

Lack of a resident medical staff is one of the most serious deficiencies of a rural hospital, Dr. Page C. Jett of Prince Frederick told the administrators, trustees and other officials at the session.

He said there have been many suggestions for remedies but the only "functioning remedy" in Maryland is that a few rural hospitals employ during the summer months medical students between their junior and senior years as house officers.

Fred A. McNamara, chief of the hospital section of the Bureau of the Budget, Washington, said most persons fail to realize that the Federal Government operates one of the largest systems of hospitals in the country.

Judge Raises 'Salary' On Jail Sentences

Wethersfield, Conn., May 28 (AP).—A municipal Judge ruled that the high cost of living had "outmoded" the dollar-a-day rate of working out jail sentences.

Benefited was a man who had been given a $25 or 25 days sentence.

Judge Herbert Nickels cut the sentence to six days. He said: "Even in jail a man's time is worth more than a dollar a day."

Several Executives End Long Careers in Government

Richard W. Flournoy

William T. Sherwood

Arthur Ruderman

Sarah L. Acker

The Assistant Commissioner of Internal Revenue and a ranking State Department executive were among officials and employes who ended long careers in Government service yesterday.

Included in a large month's-end list of Federal workers who retired from active service were William T. Sherwood, assistant revenue commissioner for three years, and Richard W. Flournoy, assistant legal adviser on special problems at the State Department, both of whom ended more than 45 years' Federal service.

Sherwood, 65, a native Washingtonian, has served as assistant commissioner since 1945, and has been with the Bureau of Internal Revenue for 28 years. He began his Government service as a clerk in the local postoffice in 1903, and remained with the Postoffice Department until his transfer to the bureau in 1920.

Going to Mexico

After a brief vacation, Sherwood will go to Mexico at the invitation of the Mexican government, which has requested him to make a study of tax collection methods in that country.

Flournoy, 70, is a native of Hampden-Sydney, Va., and attended Western High School and George Washington University here, as well as Washington and Lee University. He began his career with the State Department as a clerk in 1903 and has represented the department at several international conferences, including the Conference for the Codification of International Law at The Hague in 1930 and the London Naval Conference in 1935-36.

On his retirement yesterday, he received a letter of commendation signed by Secretary George Marshall and presented by Acting Secretary Robert A. Lovett.

Ruderman Retires

Also retiring yesterday was Arthur Ruderman, chief of the property and service section of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, who completed 39 years of Government service, all in Washington. He first started working for the Government in 1909 at the age of 17 as an assistant map printer for the Geological Survey.

Ruderman is commander of the Commerce Post of the American Legion, a member of the George C. Whiting Masonic Lodge, and has long been active in local amateur theatrical circles.

Another veteran employe who retired yesterday was Miss Sarah L. Acker, an engineering draftsman who has been with the Forest Service of the Department of Agriculture for 42 years. A native of Washington, she began work in 1906 as a copyist topographic draftsman.

Among others who ended Government service yesterday, were:

Ernest Lucas, 60, chief file clerk for the District Health Department, who has been employed by the department for 38 years.

Albert D. Smith, head of the muster roll section of the Bureau of Naval Personnel, who completed 38 years service with the Navy Department.

Mrs. Laura A. Powell, an employe of the Board of Inspection and Survey and a World War I yeomanette, who has been with the Navy Department for 30 years.

Dr. Albert R. Merz, authority in heavy chemicals with the United States Tariff Commission, who completed 34 years of Government service.

Miss Bessie M. Gries, an editorial employe of the Tariff Commission, who retired after 30 years of Federal service.

Monthly rates for 3½-room units would go up from $62.38 to $72.50, for 5½ rooms from $89 to $101.25, William a Richardson, rent control secretary-docket clerk revealed.

U. S. 4-Month Traffic Death Toll 8700

Chicago, May 28 (U.P.).—The National Safety Council reported tonight that 8700 persons lost their lives in traffic accidents over the Nation in the first four months of the year.

The toll was 7 per sent less than last year's total for the same period.

Wandering Fox Still Homeless, But There's Hope

A young fox that came into the hands of the Animal Rescue League Thursday was still homeless yesterday, after one claimant informed the league he had mistakenly identified the bushy-tailed pet as his own.

Not without hope, the league said another potential owner would call today to inspect the fox, whose published picture closely resembled one she lost several nights ago. She phoned the rescue league's headquarters yesterday, only a short time after the fox had been taken home by the earlier claimant.

The fox, obviously a pet because it was wearing a collar, was captured in a Georgetown alley Thursday by George R. Fraser, a Georgetown University student. Fraser said he would like to have the fox back if it isn't claimed.

FTC Hears Officials of 'University'

Trial Examiner John P. Bramhall of the Federal Trade Commission yesterday continued a hearing on charges of misrepresentation, selling degrees and other similar activities against four "universities" which are really one, according to the FTC.

The so-called universities, which have granted a number of theological and other degrees, are listed as the Mount Vernon University of the District, Christ Seminary of the District, and Mount Vernon University and Christ College of Fort Worth, Tex.

Attorney William L. Pencke of the FTC said the only building the four schools have had is a four-story residence at 2301 Calvert st. nw., two floors of which have been used for teaching. The top floor, he said, is used as a sanatorium by Dr. Walter Leas of 2311 Connecticut ave. nw., a dentist and former president of the university.

Dr. Leas testified yesterday that degrees were conferred under the university's Texas charter, although studies are assigned under a District charter. The District Board of Education, he said, does not allow the school to confer degrees here.

The Rev. S. L. Lacy, jr., a Richmond minister and an official of the school, explained that a $60 a month average income shown on a ledger included personal fees he received for performing marriages and other personal services, as well as school income.

Md. Epidemic Feared From Septic Tanks

Complaints that a possible epidemic is faced by 560 Lincoln High School students at Rockville, Md., were aired yesterday before Montgomery County officials.

Members of a special committee of the Lincoln Park Citizens Association described overflowing septic tanks at the county's lone Negro high school, as well as in the community surrounding it, as a "health menace."

Admitting that a typhoid or dysentery epidemic is possible, Norman Pennington, chief sanitary inspector for Montgomery County, told the committee he was powerless to furnish a solution to the problem which he described as "serious."

Committee members, headed by Chairman Raymond P. Smith, complained they had sought improvement of the condition for 18 months to no avail. "We can see no signs of relief and the situation steadily worsens," they said.

The county commissioners have taken no action on a petition submitted by Lincoln Park residents asking for extension of Rockville sewer lines a half mile away on a front-foot benefit assessment basis.

Authority to sell bonds to finance such a project has been granted the commissioners by the Legislature, but they have not exercised it, committee spokesmen said.

"The commissioners did not even reply to our letter asking for an appointment," the committee charged.

White House Asks Funds for Two Buildings

The White House yesterday asked Congress for funds and contract authorizations to get started on the new $22,850,000 General Accounting Office and $18,665,000 Federal Court Building.

The legislation, referred to the House Appropriations Committee, would provide the necessary legal go-ahead for signing contracts on the GAO building, to be constructed in the excavated lot at 5th and H sts. nw.

The bill would also put up one million dollars in cash and $14,875,000 in contract authorizations for the new building to house the U. S. Court of Appeals and the U. S. District Court, at Constitution ave. and 3d st. nw., now used for a parking lot.

Soviet Envoy and Wife Entertain at Embassy

MADAME PANYUSHKIN, wife of the Soviet Ambassador, received yesterday at her first party since her arrival in Washington a month or so ago. She and the Ambassador stood at the head of the staircase at the embassy, greeting their guests between the hours of 6 and 8.

The hostess was gowned in orchid lace, a frock which she said she brought with her from Moscow. An interpreter, who seemed to know all the guests, stayed by her side, as the Ambassadress has not yet mastered the English language.

A buffet table, which stretched the length of the ballroom, was filled with platters of choice hors d'oeuvres such as caviar and pate de foie gras. From a side bar vodka and champagne were served.

The party did not celebrate a particular date, but it did serve to introduce the new Ambassadress to members of the Diplomatic Corps.

Among the guests were the Ambassador of Poland, Jozef Winiewicz; the Ambassador of Jugoslavia, Sava N. Kosanovic, and the Minister of Romania, Mihai Ralea. Mrs. Joseph E. Davies, wife of the former United States Ambassador to Russia, was there, costumed in striking blue and white print, with which she wore an upswept straw trimmed in blue, a white fox cape, and necklace and bracelet of pearls.

The Minister of Iceland and Mrs. Thors came with their daughter, Margret, and the Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Willard Thorp were there. Also, the Norwegian Ambassador, Wilhelm Munthe de Morgenstierne, Countess di Stefano and Egidio Ortona of the Italian Embassy and M. and Mme. Armand Berard of the French Embassy.

Among others were the Charge d'Affairs of India and lovely Mme. Nehru, the Minister of Finland, Dr. K. T. Jutila, and his daughter, Vappu, the Minister of Luxembourg and Mme. Le Gallais, the Minister of South Africa and Mrs Andrews, Lady Berendsen, wife of the New Zealand Minister, the Ambassador of Burma, U So Nyun, and the Charge d'Affaires of Iraq, Ali Jawdat.

MISS MARGARET WOODHOUSE, daughter of Mrs. Chase Going Woodhouse, entertained Thursday evening at her mother's house in Georgetown in honor of Miss Betty Lee Holifield and Robert Feldman who are to be married on June 27. Miss Holifield is the daughter of Representative and Mrs. Chet Holifield of California.

THE Mexican Ambassador and Senora de Espinosa de los Monteros entertained at a dinner party at the embassy on Thursday evening. Guests of honor were the Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. John W. Snyder.

SENORA DE JAEN GUARDIA, wife of the retiring Ambassador of Panama, was the guest in whose honor Mrs. Edward Conger entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Army and Navy Club.

The Ambassador, who has been appointed Minister of Foreign Affairs of Panama, will leave on Sunday with Senora de Jean Guardia for New York. They will sail June 4 for Panama.

DWIGHT GRISWOLD, head of the American Aid Mission in Greece, was guest of honor at a stag luncheon yesterday at the Greek Embassy. The Ambassador, Vassili C. Dendramis, was host.

LOOKING for a convention chapeau? Why not try the original models, designed, made and modeled by Mrs. Lowell Stockman, wife of the Oregon Representative (left), and Mrs. Thomas G. Abernethy, wife of the Mississippi Representative (right). Notice the White House centered atop the crown of Mrs. Stockman's number. Surrounding the card board Executive Mansion are several GOP elephants. Mrs. Abernethy's Democratic number was a wide floppy black straw with red crown and streamers. She says the small democratic donkey's will out grow the GOP elephants. Both models were worn at the Congressional Club's class day exercises held yesterday

Wives of Congress Have 'Class Day'

By Genevieve Reynolds

Wives of the Nation's lawmakers held a double barreled fiesta yesterday. They celebrated the Congressional Club's fortieth anniversary and ended up a year of study with class day exercises, complete with prizes and diplomas.

Mrs. Carolyn Leigh (Clifford) Davis, headmistress of the Congressional School, welcomed guests, introduced faculty members. Then came the class songs, lead by Jean Kinchelose Davis. There were ditties for the bridge class, hat-making group, the bowling gang, Spanish classes as well as for the club.

To the tune of "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now," the audience sang for hat group's number:

"I wonder what's brewing, now?
I wonder if I will learn how?
I wonder if my hat is set on straight—
Trailing veils
And nightingales.
"I wonder if he will say yes,
When I ask if my hat is a mess.
But if he does,
Then a feminine buzz
Will question his judgment in hats!

Mrs. Maurice Thatcher, instructor of beginners Spanish, had her pupils demonstrate their language prowess. Dynamic Mrs. Edward Jenison, wife of the Illinois Representative, who is a licensed pilot, spoke "aviation" Spanish.

Then the conversational Spanish class, taught by Mrs. Leon Tashof, put on a skit. Some of the players included Mrs. John Taber, wife of the New York Representative; Mrs. Aime J. Forand, wife of the Rhode Island Representative, and Mrs. Homer R. Jones, wife of the Washington Representative.

Marie Bradley, wife of the late Representative Fred Bradley of Michigan, headed a demonstration by the bowling class. Chalking up high scores were Mrs. Wesley D'Ewart of Montana and Gertie Forand.

A "Hats of the Moment Show" was staged by pupils of the millinery class with Mrs. Albert (Pauline) Gore of Tennessee as narrator. Mary Lou Davis, wife of the Georgia Representative, turned out in a tiny, pink tulle and flower number, dubbed, "Washington Spring." Mrs. Joseph Bryson, wife of the South Carolina Representative, wore a becoming, perky white straw, which she had made.

But stealing the hat show were Mrs. Lowell Stockman, wife of the Oregon Representative, and Mrs. Thomas G. Abernethy, wife of the Mississippi Representative. Mrs. Stockman turned out in an off-the face halo type covered with sky blue paper. On the top of the crown, right in the center, was a miniature White House with GOP elephants surrounding the card-board executive mansion. Mrs. Abernethy's Democratic Convention number was a large floppy black straw with a red center for the crown. Small Democratic donkeys perched on the edge of the hat and held tightly to the White House. Mrs. Abernethy explained, that the donkeys would grow in size and take over in November.

Another fashion show was put on by the pupils in the personalized dress design class of which Mrs. Sally Steele is the assistant.

One of the handsomest frocks designed, made and modeled was an iridescent navy blue taffeta evening gown worn by Mrs. John Taber. Another eye catcher was a dark print cotton cocktail dress modeled by Mrs. Eleanor Dilwig. Mrs. Brooks Hays wore one of her self-designed, self-made dresses, a candy pink, two-piece suit.

Mrs. Margaret (Hal) Holmes, who led the club's book review sessions, gave a resume of the year's program.

A recapitulation of the club's hobby show, held earlier in the spring, was given by Mrs. Lorraine Scrivner, wife of the Kansas Representative.

About French-Made Haviland China

You said in answer to a recent question about Haviland, Limoges, that Haviland was the manufacturer, which is right. But I've always understood Limoges to be the city where Haviland china was made. Perhaps it was a misprint about Limoges meaning china in French. If I am wrong, I certainly hope you will tell me. You said also that you could get Haviland, Limoges, in the shops, but I have asked everywhere and there is none to be gotten in the stores. M. S. S.

M. S. S. is correct and we apologize for our garbled account of the situation. We have even had a letter from Theodore Haviland, 2d, himself about it! The French word for china, he points out, is porcelaine, and Limoges is a city in France, famous for its china. Mr. Haviland is president of Theodore Haviland & Co., of New York, manufacturers of fine china.

The making of Haviland china in France was discontinued some years ago, at the time of the first World War, and foreign-made Haviland cannot be found in or ordered through the china department of the stores now. The only places it might be purchased are antique or second-hand shops. New, American-made Haviland, manufactured by Theodore Haviland & Co., is available in china stores and departments. It is made in factories established in this country by one branch of the Haviland family, and the patterns differ from those of the old French Haviland.

In answer to M. L. L.'s request re painting bottles: I did it in Y camp years ago. We first painted the bottle a neutral color — beige or tan, for instance — and let that dry. Then, on top of water in a pail, we floated the colored oil paints. We put a finger in the mouth of bottle or jar and swirled it when withdrawing it from the water. E. D. L.

Young man getting married in June in the morning would like to know if white coat and dark pants would be correct dress? And what color tie should be worn? Also, are gloves necessary? J. W. R.

White coat and dark trousers (or vice versa) are correct attire for the daytime summer wedding. The tie should be black and no gloves are necessary.

I have several picture frames which are now finished in dull gold and which I would like to paint with an antique white finish. Can you tell me what kind of paint would be suitable for this, and how to achieve the effect of dark showing through the light paint? L. B.

First, remove the gold paint from the frames with paint and varnish remover. When thoroughly dry, paint with white enamel paint. After this has dried, apply a thin coat of glaze made by thinning varnish with one fourth as much turpentine, and adding black, brown, or other color-in-oil. Next, wipe the wet glaze off lightly with cheese cloth or toweling. Wipe against the grain if possible. This should leave just enough of the glaze to give the antique effect you desire.

Hacker Draws Parallel For Herblock

Cartoonist Herblock got into a taxi the other evening after a hard day of working his fingers to the bone over a hot drawing-board.

Absent-mindedly, he gave the driver an address from which he had recently moved. Recovering rapidly, however, he stammered:

"Uh—I'm sorry buddy, but I think I gave you the wrong address. I must have been day-dreaming, and gave you the number at which I formerly lived."

Hacker Scherer Preston of 14 Chesapeake st. sw. replied lightly:

"Oh, that's nothing. Wait'll you hear what happened to me a couple of weeks ago."

"What was that?" asked Herb.

"I picked up a young lady at a downtown show," explained the driver, "and I took her to an apartment house on R st. nw. Then I came back downtown and picked up another lady, who wanted to go to an apartment house on N st. nw.

"The first time I stopped for a traffic light, I wrote her destination on my manifest. But as I did, my eye must have caught the previous address, on R st.

"Whatever the explanation, I got absent-minded, too, and I drove off toward R. st. again. Just as we were drawing up to the spot where I had discharged my previous fare, I realized my mistake. But before I could say or do anything, my passenger piped up with:

" 'Oh, driver, I'm afraid I gave you the wrong address. I don't live on N st. any more—I moved today. Could you take me to so-and-so R st?'

"It was all I could do to keep from laughing," the driver continued. "I said, 'Okay, lady—here we are at your new address. You gave me the wrong destination by mistake, and I took you to the right destination—by mistake'."

"What a coincidence," exclaimed Herb. "What did the lady say?"

"She didn't say anything," replied Scherer. "She just mumbled something about Washington cab drivers and paid me off."

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

Looks like it's time for somebody to slap you male drivers down again.

I've seen more incompetent male drivers than female. Even the police cars never use hand signals.

And the drivers of small trucks and taxis are just as bad. The boys who handle the big interstate trucks are very good drivers.

But as for the rest of you males, I'll stack my 32 years of accident-free driving against any male record.

So why not give the gals a break and admit that they're good drivers?

Ethel F. Storey

Dear Mrs. Storey:

Me and my big mouth! Okay, you win. There are more rotten male drivers—because there are more male drivers.

"Two black, housebroken kittens." (Axminster 0609).

"Three female six-toed kittens." (Olympic 9280).

"Three well-educated kittens and their mother." (Chestnut 6995, after 5 p. m.)

"Three black, bouncing, beautiful, carefree puppies." (Woodley 1366).

"Cute female puppy, part police." (Chestnut 6673).

"Lady Montague and her three dramatic little kittens, all named after Shakespearean characters." (Georgia 7822).

"Three little kittens, in search of homes." (Metropolitan 5318).

Wonder if I could talk Russ Young into proclaiming a "Let's Not Give Away Any Kittens Week."

HOW'S THAT AGAIN?

Paul Muse of the Manassas (Va.) Messenger lifts an eyebrow at a recent sports item which revealed that:

"Osbourn High School defeated Mount Vernon of Alexandria, 6 to 3, here last night. It was Osbourn's sixth win in three starts."

Winning six times in three starts is a technique the Nats should investigate with the utmost dispatch.

Toots Shor tells of finding Joe Frisco sitting in front of the St. Moritz Hotel at 3 a. m. "Two months ago I owed a $300 rent bill here," said Frisco. "A man came up to me and said: 'Hello, Joe. Anything I could do for you?' I told him I needed a few hundred bucks. The man held up six fingers in front of the cashier and the cashier gave me $600. So I paid the $300 rent I owed and had $300 more." . . . "That was two months ago," Shor reminded him. "What're you doing here at 3 o'clock in the morning?" . . . "Waiting. Patiently waiting," sighed Frisco. "After all, the guy may come back."

Last week Jack Kapp, head of Decca Records, asked Al Jolson to record the Hebrew anthem, "Hatikvah." Jolson decided that on the other side of this recording there should be a Hebrew march song . . . He selected, as the melody, an old Yiddish tune which is in the public domain—"Chussin, Kahlah, Mazel Tuv," wrote lyrics to it, named it "Israel," and recorded it Friday with a chorus of 30. On Monday Ted Husing played the recording on his radio show, and last night Jolson, carrying the first pressing with him, visited the local disc jockeys, operated as his own song-plugger, and had them play it.

Last night "Cup of Trembling" reopened at the International Theater. This is the theater where Corse Peyton once operated his 10-20-30c stock company. Although Peyton would announce "a cast of 29, and if you include me, that means a penny an actor," the only time the theater really thrived was when he saw a crowd assembling in Columbus Circle across the street to see the dedication of the new monument. Peyton immediately sent for his young assistant, Louis Calhern, and had him make a sign which brought mobs to the empty theater's roof: "See the Monument Ceremonies—30c."

Lobbyists Work From 'Inside'

By Drew Pearson

Two days ago this column contrasted the high-pressure methods of the oleomargarine lobby with the unorganized but plaintive hopes of several million people for homes—through passage of the housing act.

Pearson

Here is another chapter in the story. It illustrates how the present Republican Congress eats out of the hand of the big lobbies.

What the public doesn't know is that their money has gone to pay a group of high-powered New York press agents to sit right inside the Joint Congressional Committee on Housing and propagandize on behalf of the real estate lobby.

The press agents are Bell, Jones and Taylor of 350 Fifth ave., New York, and two members of the firm were each paid $10,000 a year to spread real estate lobby propaganda from their carefully placed spots inside the committee. Another member of the firm was paid $25 a day.

During the Hoover Administration when Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut allowed a lobbyist from the Connecticut Manufacturers Association to sit in on a secret tariff hearing, Bingham was reprimanded by his Republican Senate colleagues and later defeated for reelection. The temper of some Republican Senators has now changed.

How Lobby Operated

The Republicans who hired the real-estate-lobby press agents were affable Senator Joe McCarthy of Wisconsin and Representative Ralph Gamble of New York. The neat sleight-of-hand used by these two Housing Committee members was to put Press Agent Luther Bell on the payroll at $10,000 as assistant to Congressman Gamble, while Press Agent Mark Jones was made assistant to Senator McCarthy at the same salary. O. A. Taylor was paid $25 a day as a "committee consultant"—though actually he spent much of his time in New York.

Supposedly the press agents were hired to make an impartial study of the housing shortage. But here is how they studied it.

First, it appeared that they knew little about housing; in fact, Jones virtually admitted as much to staff associates. He had to call in a specialist from the Library of Congress and two people from the Agriculture Department for help.

Part of the press agents' time was spent hobnobbing with such "impartial" authorities as the kingpin of the real-estate lobby—Frank Cortwright, executive vice president of the National Association of Home Builders.

Blamed the Churches

The Joint Housing Committee, it should be remembered, was appointed by both branches of Congress to make a fair and comprehensive report on one of the greatest economic and social problems facing the Nation. Yet the New York press agents, after hobnobbing with the real-estate lobbyists, produced a windy 400-page report which blamed "representatives of Roman Catholic, Protestant churches and Jewish synagogues" together with Community Chest people and visiting nurses for egging on the demand for public housing.

In the end, the committee rejected the report. Thus a considerable chunk of the public's money was paid out by Senator McCarthy and Congressman Gamble for nothing.

But it was not for nothing as far as the real estate lobby was concerned.

For, although the 400-page report was rejected in favor of a 40-page report written by fair-minded GOP Senator Flanders of Vermont, Press Agent Bell managed to get his report adopted as a committee "print." This meant that it was printed at public expense, although not actually representing the views of the committee.

However, since the unsuspecting public seldom knows the difference, several thousand copies of this pro-real estate lobby report were broadcast over the Nation.

The Backstage Boys

The payoff as to who arranged the whole deal by which the press agents were planted inside the committee may be the names of the organizations who grabbed up the pro-lobby report and sent it out to the public. They are: The National Association of Real Estate Boards, the Mortage Bankers Association, the National Association of Home Builders, and Morton Bodfish's United States Savings and Loan League. (He is now under Federal indictment.)

Each song I hear

Each song I hear reminds me of . . . A certain time and place . . . And each is like a photograph . . . Of some familiar face . . . It draws me back in reverie . . . To days of long ago . . . And all the smiles and tears that filled . . . The life I used to know . . . Each song is like the echo of . . . A word that someone said . . . Or like a lonely ghost that walks . . . Where happiness had fled . . . It haunts me when the day is dark . . . Or when the night is blue . . . With melody reminding me . . . Of all that I went through . . . Or else it is a happy song . . . Of what has gone before . . . And one I hope my longing heart . . . Will hear for evermore.
